QUAKER VALLEY

QV committee near deadline decision on Act 72

By Dona S. Dreeland

Editor

The work of the district's Act 72 Study Committee is nearly done.

All members need to do is incorporate the public's concerns from last night's meeting, and they'll be able to make a solid recommendation to the Quaker Valley School Board on Tuesday, May 24, when a vote on the issue will be taken.

Having spent months analyzing the impact of opting into the state's plan to reduce property taxes by connecting school funding to gambling, the committee is leaning toward non-participation, as discussed last week.

All 501 school districts in the state have until May 30 to reach a decision. To date, according to news reports, 10 districts have approved the Act 72 tax reform package.

What the committee has discovered with the help of its consultant, Pennsylvania Financial Management (PFM), and debated is that Quaker Valley's share of the gambling revenue could total approximately $563,000 when the gaming funds reach $500 million.

Increased gambling funds would increase the distribution to participating districts sometime in the future.

And this amount would be used to reduce the property taxes of the 5,608 homeowners in the district. The plan is revenue neutral for districts.

While there would a reduction in property tax for some, the implementation of a .1 percent earned income tax for the employed would reduce overall benefits.

Some homeowners would get some

Deadline nears for Act 72 decision relief, but area renters would find themselves paying more. According to the 2000 census, 24.9 percent of residents are renters, the largest percentage live in Sewickley Borough.

"If Act 72 was a real attempt at property tax reform, I don't think we would hesitate to recommend opting in," said Mark Scoscia, committee member, last week.

"There isn't anyone here who isn't in favor of fixing the property tax system. But Act 72 is a tax shift and doesn't appear to be about fair property tax reform."

Marvin Wedeen, who also serves on the committee, said poorer districts with declining or slowly rising property values would benefit.

"The governor says $5 of gambling money would match each $1 in earned income," he said. "Here in the Quaker Valley, the ratio would be $1:$1."

The shift in the tax burden to renters troubled many of the committee members. Others were concerned about turning down the half-million dollars, one and one-half percent of the district's $30 million budget or .45 mil.

Costs for doing business under Act 72 have been calculated at approximately $38-$40 per taxpayer.

"We're gambling that we may or may not get revenues," said Deborah Miller, committee member. "With all this effort, we'll get less than 2 percent, and 50 percent of the residents will win and 50 percent will lose. This really isn't property tax reform."

Misconceptions about the gambling bill were brought to the public's attention last night.

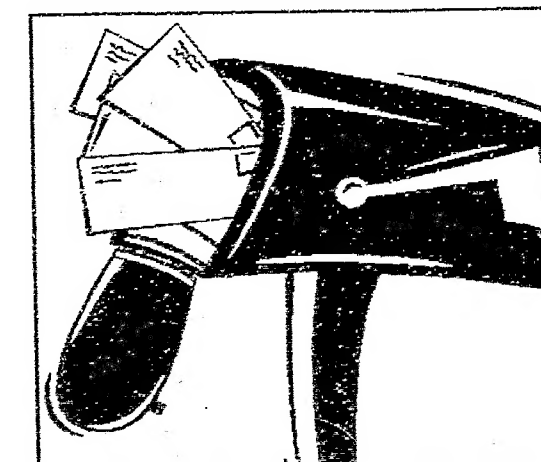

One is the belief that property taxes will decrease proportionately for everyone and not go up again if the district opts into the legislation.

Under Act 72, school boards can increase taxes to an index-determined degree every year and if property assessments rise, the amount of each property owner's taxes also may rise.

Although the back end referendum included in the legislation is a concern in many districts, the committee is not concerned with that issue. Based on PFM research, projections indicate that referenda in Quaker Valley rarely would be applicable.

"This is a bad law," said Dr. R. Gerard Longo, superintendent. "They (the legislators) should be embarrassed. It's fool's gold."

■ No one has filed to run for the three available council seats or the mayor position in Haysville.

■ No positions are open in Glenfield and Osborne boroughs.

Dr. Sabatelle mixes medicine, mission in wider world

By Sarah Mills

Herald contributor

The cheerful, business-like Brooklyn accent with which Dr. Robert C. Sabatelle, a doctor and deacon at St. James Catholic Church, greets his parishioners and patients alike belies the fact that he's been to more than five countries around the world.

HEALING & HOPE

Born in 1939 in New York, Sabatelle graduated medical school in 1961. He then moved into military service as a major in the U.S. Army. Later, he built a practice in obstetrics and gynecology.

"I was interested in healing people," said Sabatelle. "I thought it would be a great joy to deliver babies, to bring new life into the world."

After retiring from medicine, his love for the church and service led to his ordination as a permanent deacon in the Catholic Church. He was assigned to Sewickley Valley Hospital as a Catholic chaplain.

Soon, however, he realized he missed ministering to people through medicine. "I still felt I wanted to do service for people," he said.

DR. ROBERT Sabatelle (left) prepares for another day in an outdoor clinic in Brazil with another doctor.

He contacted the Catholic Medical Missions Board, who put him in touch with Helping Hands Medical Missions, a Catholic organization dedicated to providing medical and spiritual help to those in need around the world.

The organization was formally established in 1986, but was begun earlier by Lupita Assad, a nurse. Since its inception, it has hosted more than 35 missions and served more than 55,400 patients worldwide.

The organization sends Catholic doctors, nurses, volunteers and priests to places such as Mexico, Venezuela and the Philippines.

Sabatelle chose to work with Helping Hands for many reasons.

"They knew I was a deacon in the Catholic Church, they felt I would go hand-in-hand," he said.

The missions are each about a week long, a schedule he felt he could handle while still attending to his many duties as deacon.

He has been with the organization for more than five years, and has been to Mexico, El Salvador, Brazil, Honduras, and the Philippines.

He goes on two or three missions a year, bringing medical supplies, such as antibiotics, and his many years of medical experience to the patients.

"This organization is so well developed. They get a lot of supplies as donations, and the hospitals have surgical equipment," he said.

The cost of the medical missions is high, but Sabatelle is grateful for the help he gets from St. James.

"My pastor, Father Al Semler, has been very good, very supportive, as well as the people of St. James — they have taken up collections for me to go," he said.

Sabatelle has been on missions with as few as 25 other people, and as many

EDITORIAL Let intelligent choices bring race to finish line

By Dona S. Dreeland
Editor

It's a horserace.
With a field of nine, the district magistrate candidates have been off and running even before their first public meet-and-greet at Sewickley Public Library on April 24.

Since then they've had two more presentations: one at the Masonic Village and another at St. Matthews A.M.E. Zion Church, just last Saturday.

A third meeting is planned for 7 p.m. Friday, May 13, at Quaker Valley High School.

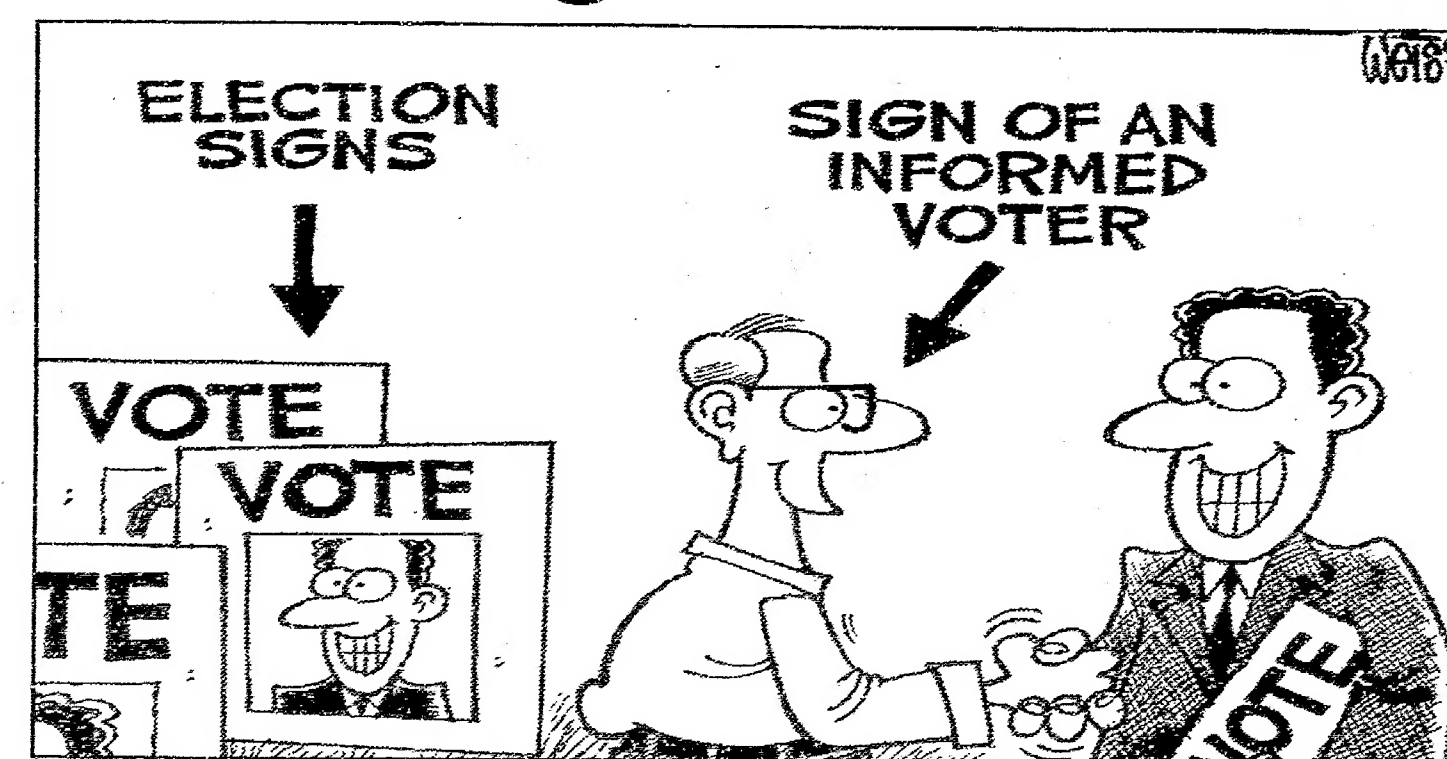

On that first occasion, eight of the nine candidates took questions from Suzanne Broughton, president of the League of Women voters, and the audience.

The evening was a gauge of how articulate the candidates were as they expressed their reasons for running. But public speaking skills aren't essential to the bench.

I came to the event knowing the nearly $65,000-per-year position does not require a law degree. The late Judge Jimmy Russo served capably through nearly three decades of changing mores and complicated statutes.

This primary, local voters will make their choice from among a law enforcement officer, a businessman and a former one, and six attorneys of varied experience.

They all promised to be active in their new role and at work full time as much as the position required. Within the schedule of court dates and paper work, lawyers can still stay active in their practices if they choose.

At the library, each candidate spoke about his or her connection with the community — whether lifelong or less than two years. Recognizing the area's focus on quality and relationships, they were eager to bring the wealth of their career experience — of years or decades — to the tasks of the local judiciary.

How does a voter choose in this race? Answer the doorbell when one of them comes to call and engage them in discussion.

Count the signs in all the front yards but visit the next public debate.

Drive by the billboard but get to know those who are campaigning for your support. Find the person behind the rhetoric and judge each one's commitment to the office.

Imagine yourself inside the courtroom, facing the candidate. It might happen — this district court is a busy one and of the thousand of cases tried here each year, most involve traffic offenses. Then decide what you want from someone on the bench.

The candidates are running and they're running hard. According to Broughton, there has never been a debate forum for district magistrate anywhere in her 30 years.

This is no time for a casual bet on an office-seeker by name alone. Your vote on May 17 is worth more than that.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Resident applauds local artist's work

Dear Editor:

What a superb write up of the 50th anniversary of the Salk vaccine.

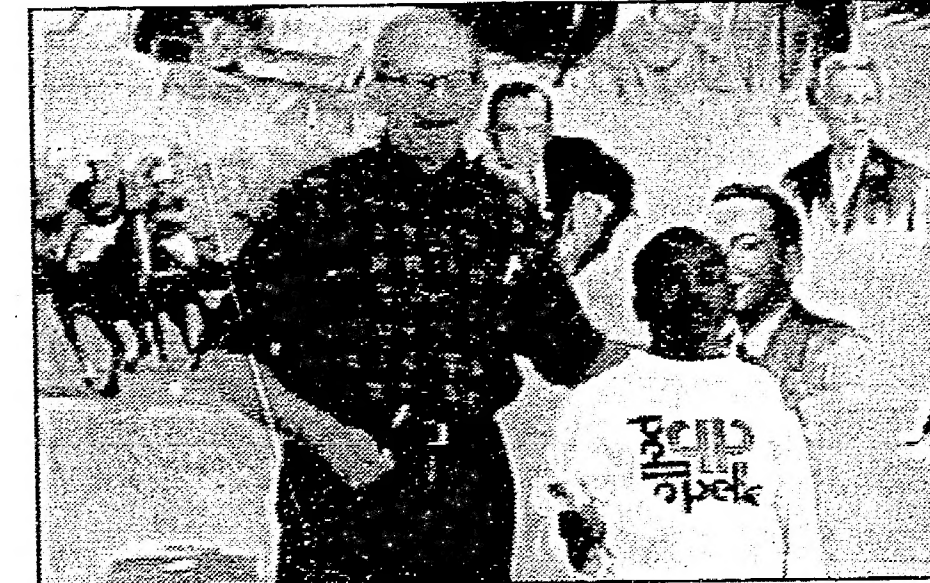

And what an outstanding mural has been painted by Richard C. Smith!

He has a knack for involving the children and still turning out the most superb painting.

He is certainly to be commended for his artistic ability — second to none in this community — and his willingness to share his talent for all community endeavors.

Bravo, Dick!

Program chair finds joy in connections

Dear Editor:

I am a member of the Sewickley Senior Men's Club and my most recent assignment is that of program chairman.

My association with the club has been one of the joys of my long life, and I am finding my job particularly rewarding.

My duty is to obtain entertaining speakers to make presentations to our audience of about 120 senior men at the Sewickley YMCA each Friday.

We impose no charge for these meetings and the total dues are only $12 per year.

We are enjoying increased attendance and that means increased membership and donations to our coffee and doughnut fund.

As a non-profit organization, we do not pay our speakers. Instead, we have made small donations to local schools or worthwhile charities.

Most of our year-end bank account is donated to the YMCA and this is usually a substantial amount.

The Y has been wonderful to the Senior Men's Club, mainly through the use of their facilities.

We have had many celebrity speakers. I aim high and have been fortunate enough to obtain such speakers as Cyril Wecht, Art Rooney II, Jim Leyland, Kevin McClatchy, Dan Onorato, Sally Wiggin, etc.

Occasionally, I receive "regrets."

Two interesting ones were personal letters to me and the Senior Men's Club signed by Arnold Palmer and Steelers Hall of Famer Jack Lambert.

I'd like to share some excerpts from these notes:

Arnold Palmer wrote: "I appreciate your invitation to speak to the Senior Men's Club Unfortunately, because of my extremely busy schedule and contractual commitments, I just don't have time to accommodate your request."

"Please express my best wishes to the membership."

Jack Lambert wrote: "Thanks for the invite to speak to you guys, but with four kids at home, I just don't have the time...."

"Please give my warmest regards to all the guys and thank you and them for your (military) sacrifice."

This is what makes my assignment so neat!

Sincerely,
Paul R. Collier

LETTER TO EDITOR

Reminder to mind the dog

Dear Editor:

It's that time of year again, National Dog Bite Prevention Week is May 15 - 21 and the postal service, health care professionals and animal protection professionals need your help.

Last year, nationwide, 3,300 letter carriers sustained dog bite injuries.

But that pales in comparison to the more than 4.7 million people - most of them children and the elderly - who are bitten by dogs each year.

You can help protect your letter carrier, meter reader, newspaper delivery person or your neighbors' children by making sure your pet is properly restrained.

Pet owners, did you know that if your dog attacks a letter carrier, you could be held liable for all medical expenses and other costs, which can run into thousands of dollars?

Don't think your fence is the only protection you need, especially if a letter carrier or delivery person must enter your yard.

The Postal Service is not anti-dog, but pro-responsibility.

This message is a public service of the Sewickley Post Office.

Debra Breaunigner

Common Pleas judges hold voters event

Are you tired of not knowing which judicial candidate to elect?

This year, you'll have no excuse.

On Sunday, May 15, from 5 to 7:30 p.m., the League of Women Voters and Sewickley Public Library will present a Meet the Candidates forum with individuals running for Allegheny County Court of Common Pleas Judge.

Other candidates for office in the Quaker Valley area are also invited to attend, but space is limited, so all attendees, candidates and voters, are asked to register by contacting the library at 412-741-6920.

Doctor travels world with medical ministry as 70.

The missions include both medical and spiritual aspects. The doctors and nurses participate in clinical work, as well as surgery.

The priest will say Mass for the people, and attend to their spiritual needs.

"It's a role of ministry to serve the poor," said Sabatelle. "Some of those people never even see a priest. They are so happy to see a priest that they run up to him."

On his missions, Sabatelle has confronted extreme poverty, as well as many diseases that have been forgotten by the developed world, such as tuberculosis.

He recalled a 28-year-old woman in El Salvador, Anacaly del Carmen Hernandez, who was dying of tuberculosis after childbirth.

Sabatelle treated her, and the next year, when he returned to El Salvador, a happy, healthy Carmen Hernandez, with a young daughter in tow, greeted and thanked him for her medical care.

Sabatelle recalled another woman with a breast tumor weighing eight pounds.

"When she walked into the clinic, I thought she was carrying a baby," he said.

WHILE DR. Sabatelle shares his medical knowledge, his congregation at St. James Catholic Church has raised funds to support the care of TB patients in El Salvador.

"It turned out she was carrying her breast."

They removed the tumor, and Sabatelle hopes to see her well on the road to recovery if he returns next year.

Despite the poverty and disease, Sabatelle remains amazed at the attitude he encounters wherever he goes.

"[I have learned] to be so thankful for what we have in America," he said.

"Despite the poverty, these people have a very strong faith. They're so thankful. The spirit of faith, hope, trust and love of God ... it's wonderful."

BILL FOR DISTRICT JUDGE GREEN

Tough ■ Fair ■ Full-time

Bill Green talks about district courts

"Next Tuesday, we will vote for a new district judge. Nothing is more important than choosing someone who will represent us and hear every case with an open mind.

The police are already well represented in the district court. They are there every day. Attorneys are there as well, representing the accused.

Someone needs to be in the courtroom whose perspective is not that of a police officer or an attorney, but who is there to represent the people of the Quaker Valley.

I believe that my forty-year career and my common sense have prepared me to do just that. I am honored by the support I have received from so many of you, and I ask again for your vote on Tuesday."

Volk is a member of St. James Catholic Church in Sewickley and St. James Choir and is a director of the Sewickley Hunt.

Room design gets first place

Nanette Catarinella, owner of Room Styles Interiors in Wilkins Township, received first place honors for best living room at the annual conference of Interior Redesign Industry Specialists, an international professional association, held in Seattle.

Her entry was a room designed for Carol Zeitler of Sewickley. Catarinella has more than 25 years experience in interior decorating and real estate, offering real estate staging for homeowners who are considering listing their homes for sale.

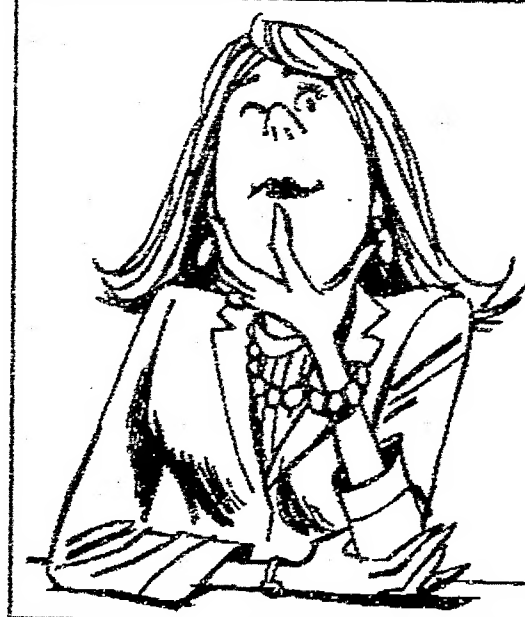

"Sometimes people expect me to show up with a painter, an electrician, a plumber — everything short of lights and a camera crew — because that's what they've seen on TV," says Catarinella.

"But redesign is really much simpler. It's a fast, affordable way to give your home a bold new look and enhanced functionality by using what you already own and that's why it has such a strong appeal."

Catarinella is also a member of the Interior Design Society and Affiliate and the One Day Decorators Alumni Association.

Dr. Maroon named one of 'Top Docs'

Wheeling Hospital neurosurgeon Joseph C. Maroon, M.D., has earned two distinct and prestigious professional honors recently: He is included in the exclusive "2005 Top Docs" list in Pittsburgh Magazine's May issue, and his research study presentation showing the benefits of fish oil supplementation for pain management in spine and joint pain patients won a first-place prize at the annual meeting of the American Association of Neurological Surgeons in April.

Maroon is one of only nine neurological surgeons in the Pittsburgh area who made Pittsburgh Magazine's list of "Top Docs," which includes 135 area physicians in 48 specialties.

The magazine commissioned Castle Connolly Medical Ltd., a physician-led team of researchers who followed a rigorous screening process to select the best doctors. Castle Connolly conducted a comprehensive survey of area physicians and medical leadership at local hospitals, asking them to identify highly skilled and exceptional doctors.

The survey was combined with careful screening of doctors' educational and professional experience before final selection was made for the list.

At the American Association of Neurological Surgeons meeting April 18 in New Orleans, Maroon presented results of a research study of the effects of omega-3 essential fatty acids, found in fish oils, for pain management in patients with neck and low-back pain at the University of Pittsburgh Medical Center (UPMC).

The study was honored as the best of 500 poster presentations at the meeting, attended by 2,500 surgeons from around the world.

In the study, Maroon found that nearly 60 percent of patients who were placed on omega-3 fatty acids experienced decreased joint pain, and nearly 70 percent were able to comfortably discontinue their use of traditional anti-inflammatory medications, some of which can cause adverse side effects.

In fact, the Food and Drug Administration recently has taken some, such as Vioxx, off the market.

The study showed that omega-3 fatty acids may, in some cases, be a safe and natural alternative to traditional prescription and over-the-counter anti-inflammatory medications.

Maroon, who is professor and vice chairman of neurological surgery at the University of Pittsburgh School of Medicine, maintains a clinical and surgical practice at UPMC Presbyterian Hospital in the Oakland section of Pittsburgh and at Sewickley Valley Hospital.

He also sees patients at Wheeling Hospital and at the East Ohio Medical Complex in St. Clairsville, Ohio.

A Belaire, Ohio, native and a Sewickley resident, Maroon is a nationally known premiere specialist in the surgical treatment of injuries and diseases of the brain and spine, particularly with microscopic and minimally invasive procedures.

His research into brain tumors, concussions and diseases of the spine have led to many innovative techniques for diagnosing and treating these disorders.

The 3.99% APR* Home Equity Line of Credit That'll Put You on Cloud 9 for a Whole Year!

A 3.99% APR Home Equity Line of Credit from Clearview not only comes with a great rate for the first year, but you'll also get closing cost rebates up to $500.

And of course, once your loan is approved, you can use the money for anything you like: home improvement, education expenses, vacation ... whatever.

Don't wait. Offer ends June 30, 2005. Apply today. Because depending upon your home's value, the sky's the limit.

Call (412) 269-3011, or visit us online at www.clearviewfcu.org.

HOME EQUITY LINE OF CREDIT

*APR = Annual Percentage Rate. The introductory Home Equity Line of Credit 3.99% APR is for the first 12 months beginning on the day of loan closing. APR is based on a 30-year term of 6.75% loan-to-value. After this introductory rate period, the APR will be indexed to the Prime Rate + 0.5%. The index used to determine the indexed rate will be the Prime Rate found in the Money Rates section of the "Wall Street Journal" published on the first working day of the month. The APR will then be adjusted on the first of the following month. Minimum credit line of $10,000. Rates effective as of April 15, 2005. Other rates and terms are available. All rates are subject to change without notice. All loan approvals are subject to normal underwriting procedures.

Closing cost rebates will be released after a minimum $6,000 initial HELOC advance is made. If a loan is refinanced with another financial institution or paid off within six months of origination, the rebates must be reimbursed to the Credit Union.

Vision for the future.

Don't lose sight of what matters most.

Cloudy, blurred images. Vision that slowly narrows. Sight that gradually gets worse. Don't miss seeing the people and places you love. Don't let eye disease blind you to the truth that almost half of all people who will lose their eyesight this year could have prevented it.

Look to the place where new innovations and treatments fight eye disease and conditions that no longer have to cause loss of sight. Look to the place whose visionary techniques have helped hundreds of cataract and glaucoma patients. Look to the Cataract & Eye Surgery

Center, where some of the best eye doctors in the city use some of the best technology in the world to treat and prevent eye disease. Early detection is vital. Call today to make an appointment for a free screening. We'll even provide free transportation.

Conditions we treat include: Glaucoma, Cataracts, Diabetic Retinopathy, Age-related Vision Loss, Macular Degeneration, Corneal Disease, Retinal Detachment and Ocular Plastic Surgery.

OPENING

Resident opens new art gallery

By Vera Miller

Staff writer

Regina Rosario's life-long passion for art will become more public with the opening of her own gallery, Reg Gallery/Studio.

The Sewickley resident is holding a reception from 6 to 9 p.m. on Saturday, May 14, at her gallery at 4030 Butler St. in Lawrenceville.

"There is a great artistic community here," she says about downtown Lawrenceville. "I feel I am in a supportive group of artists here."

Rosario, a 1983 Quaker Valley High School graduate, specializes in nude paintings and will open her gallery with 23 pieces.

"Women have beautiful bodies and are wonderful to paint," she says. "They inspire me to paint."

Rosario prepared for her career by attending the School of Visual Arts and receiving a bachelor's degree in fine arts at the Fashion Institute of Technology in New York City.

She returned to Sewickley four years ago from New York City, where she worked as a menswear designer for art magazines, after her husband was relocated to the area.

CLASSES

HVHS helps new families

If you are expecting a baby, Heritage Valley Health System's maternity classes can help you and your family members prepare for upcoming life changes.

Classes are being offered in May at The Medical Center, Beaver (TMC).

They are free unless otherwise noted.

■ A four-session Lamaze class for expectant parents (or mother and a supportive guest) will be held Thursdays, May 19 and 26, from 7 to 9:30 p.m.

Lamaze classes should be attended eight to 10 weeks prior to the expected delivery. Certified Lamaze instructors teach mothers and supportive guests methods for informed, active participation in childbirth.

A tour of the maternity center is included. A fee of $65 per couple is charged for Lamaze classes. Many health plans reimburse the fee.

■ A two-part "Breast-feeding for Moms-to-Be" class is scheduled for Monday, May 23, from 7 to 9:30 p.m.

The course, taught by a lactation (breastfeeding) consultant, will provide expectant mothers with guidelines for a successful experience.

Topics will include advantages of breastfeeding, body changes that occur during pregnancy and breastfeeding, recognizing if the baby is getting enough milk, what to do if problems arise.

Supportive guests are welcome at the second session. There is a $5 fee per person per session; guests can attend for free.

To register for TMC education programs, call 724-773-4636.

Heritage Valley Health System provides comprehensive health care for residents of Allegheny, Beaver, Butler and Lawrence counties, in Pennsylvania; eastern Ohio; and the panhandle of West Virginia. In partnership with more than 500 physicians, Heritage Valley offers a broad range of medical, surgical and diagnostic services at The Medical Center, Beaver and Sewickley Valley Hospital.

Women should be treated differently.

Drs. Richard C. Lorenzo and Zenaida Rosado

Not all women are created equal and not all medical treatments for women should be the same. That's why there are alternatives to hysterectomies and different treatments for incontinence. And for women, there is now an OB-GYN practice close by that represents one of the best choices for women's health care anywhere in the city.

Drs. Lorenzo and Rosado welcome you to their practice with two convenient locations. One office is just a skywalk away from Pittsburgh's Ohio Valley General Hospital and all of its advanced testing facilities. The other is right near the Mall at Robinson.

These two highly trained OB-GYN doctors are now taking new patients and delivering new babies. Evening hours are available. Call now and make an appointment. We think you'll find their treatment plans perfectly suited to your needs.

HONORS

Quaker Quill named first in competition

The American Scholastic Press Association has awarded the Quaker Valley High School newspaper The Quaker Quill another first place in its annual competition.

Since 1992, The Quill has received 13 first place awards, one second place award and one first place with special merit.

In the category for high schools with 500-1,000 students, there were 21 first place awards for the 2004-05 school year.

Quaker Valley was the only high school in southwestern Pennsylvania to receive the top award.

Faculty advisor Rita Hoepp said The Quill received 910 out of a possible 1,000 judging points.

The papers are judged on content coverage, page design, general plan, art/advertising/illustrations, editing and creativity. The judges also provide a detailed critique with suggestions on how the publication can be improved.

The Quill is edited by seniors Claire Shorall and Collin Swan. Kristin Kipke is the photographer.

YOUTH CONNECT continues its mission

By Vera Miller
Staff writer

Members of Youth Connect are getting ready to prepare a plan to build a more connected community.

The group of young and adult members will meet at 9 a.m. on Thursday, May 12, at The Presbyterian Church, Sewickley, on Grant Street, to talk about its mission and strategic plan. Anyone in the community is welcome to attend.

"Attendance at the workshops has been picking up each month," said Alan Carson, a Quaker Valley Middle School guidance counselor.

"There is an increase in awareness about the group. We have a very strong group of parents."

The group formed earlier this year to help families better communicate with each other. "We are trying to increase the connection between kids and their parents and themselves with the community," Carson said.

"As society has evolved, family disconnect with kids having personal entertainment centers, sleep-overs and cell phones. Families have drifted apart and are no longer connected to instill values in their children."

A group of 10 to 16 parents, teachers, students and psychologists have been working to change the behavior.

So far, the group has held three workshops to provide suggestions for better communication. Discussions have followed.

After tomorrow's meeting, workshops will not be held again until September.

The issues addressed by the group are based on a confidential survey Quaker Valley students in grades 6-12 filled out last year about their attitudes and experiences with drug and alcohol use.

Parent Joan Murdoch believes Youth Connect is providing resources not typically available.

"Parents want reliable information how to help their kids," she says.

"There is a lot of information for parents when kids are young. There is not a lot of support groups for parents of older kids."

Youth Connect is co-sponsored by Sewickley Ministerium, Quaker Valley School District, Sewickley Academy, The Presbyterian Church, Sewickley, and Sewickley-Coraopolis branch of A.A.U.W.

Volunteers wanted

Sewickley Valley Hospital is looking for a few good young adults who are interested in sharing their summer in fulfilling volunteer work.

Junior volunteers are being recruited to provide a minimum of 50 hours of service at the hospital and its satellite facilities during the months of June, July and August.

A student must be at least age 14 by June 1, 2005, and able to volunteer once per week throughout the summer.

To receive a packet of information on the program, call Irene Dailey, director, Volunteer and Community Services, at 412-749-7052.

Interviews, an orientation and skills training will take place in May.

The deadline to apply is Friday, May 13.

Walk for a Healthy Community

Highmark Blue Cross Blue Shield invites you to step it up and help raise money for one of 20 local organizations in the 3rd Annual Walk For A Healthy Community on Saturday, May 21 at the Chevrolet Amphitheatre at Station Square.

Walkers in the 5K Walk and One-Mile Fun Walk can raise money for the local charity of their choice.

So step up to the challenge and walk for your health, and the health of your favorite charity. To register, or for more information, call (412) 544-3776 or visit www.walkforahealthycommunity.org.

Registration begins at 7:45 A.M.
5K Walk begins at 9:00 A.M.
One-Mile Fun Walk begins at 9:15 A.M.

HONORS

QVMS student is wordmaster

Quaker Valley Middle School eighth grader Eliza O'Reilly has won high honors in this year's final WordMasters Challenge, a national competition for high school students requiring close reading and analysis of different kinds of prose and poetry.

Eliza placed among the highest 133 of the 51,000 ninth graders who participated in the classroom competition.

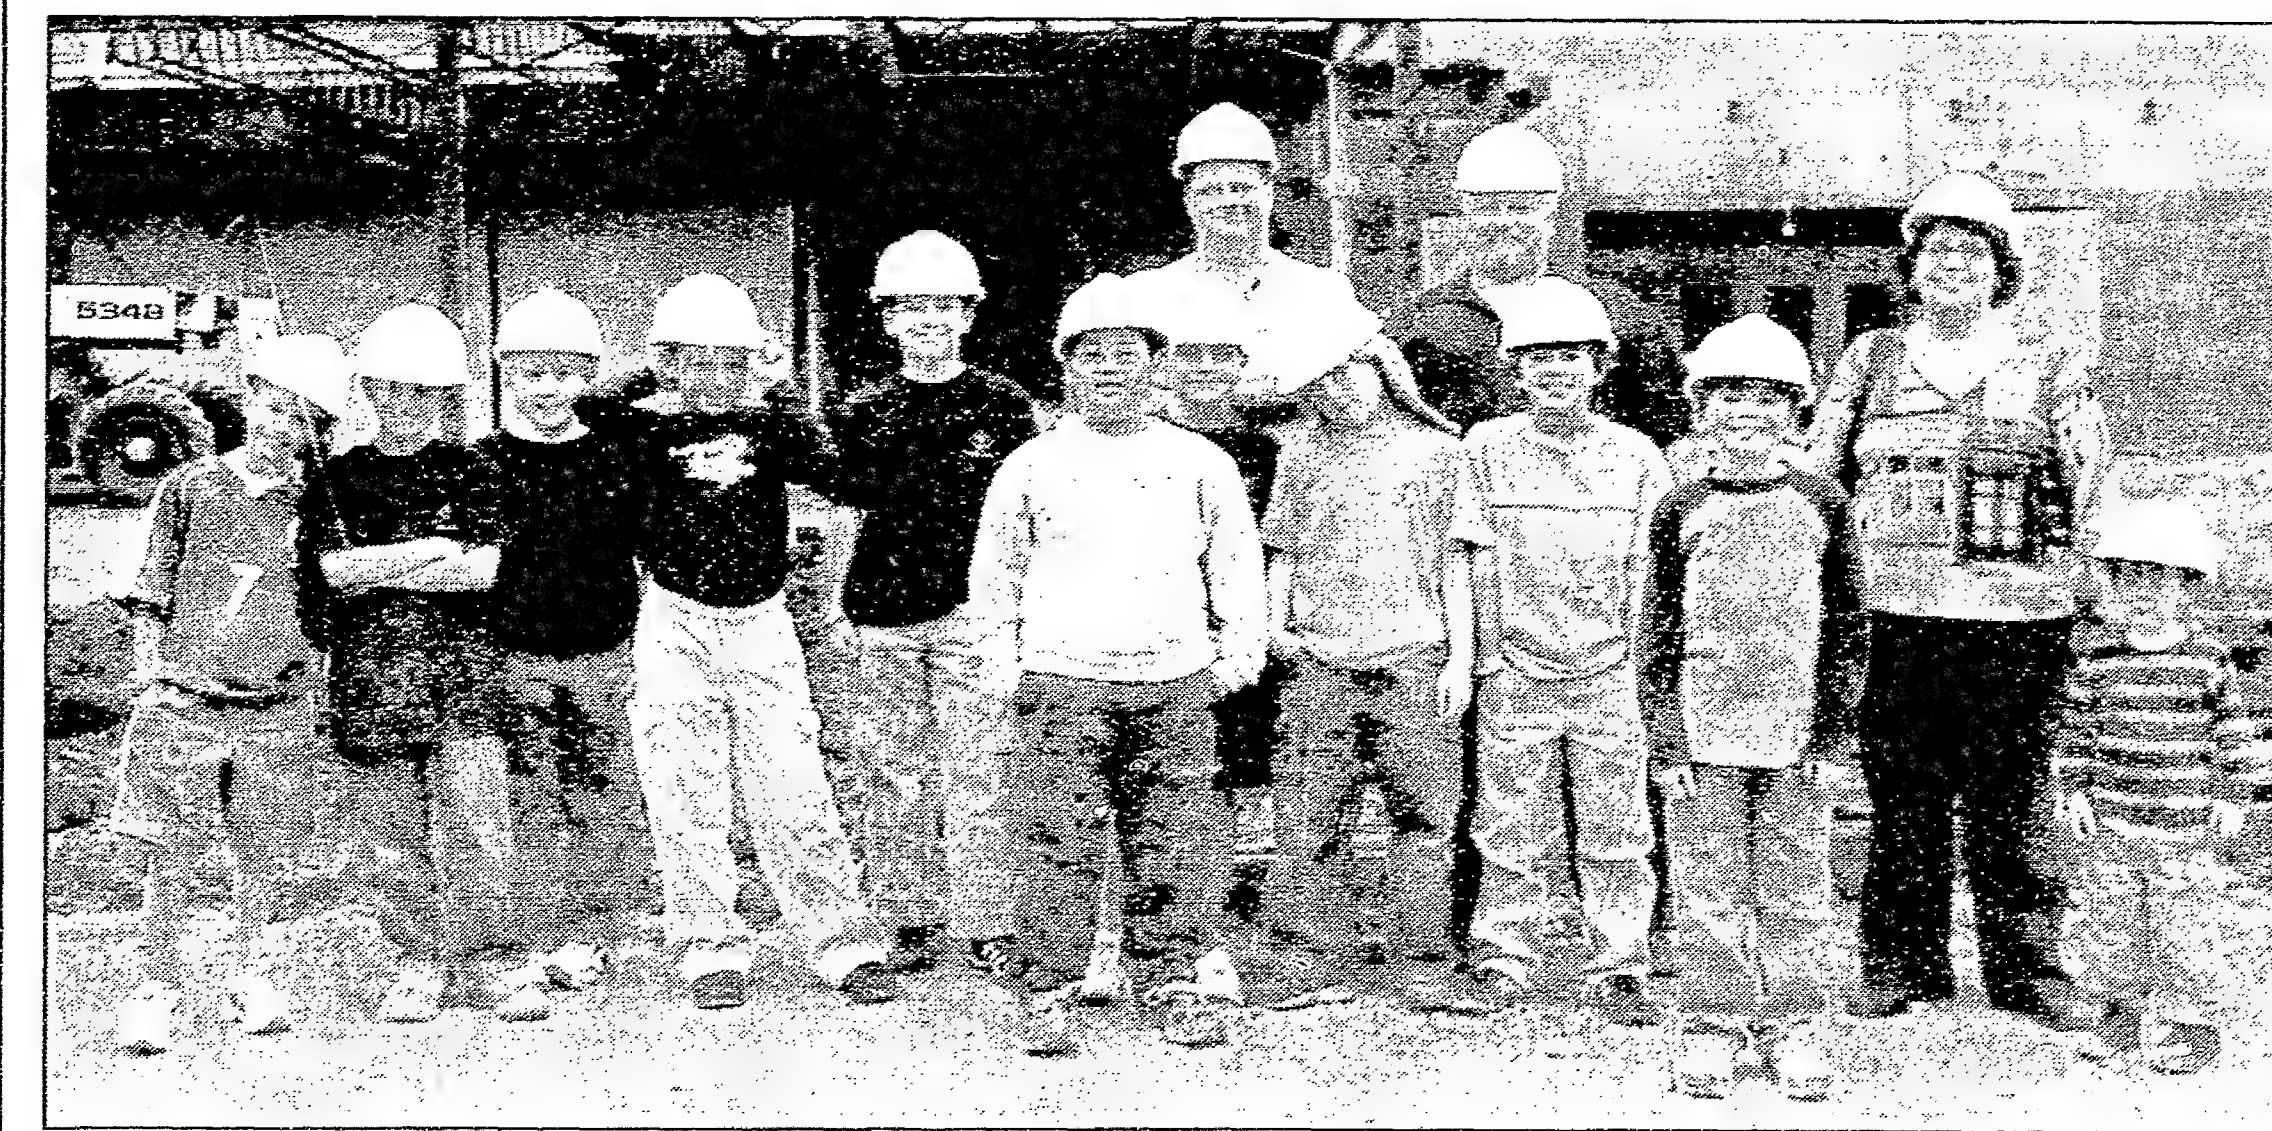

Quaker Valley's eighth graders, supervised by Language Arts teacher Dana Schultz and Lindsay Cashman, have competed at the ninth grade level for several years.

For the final meet of the year, the students read, analyzed and discussed a short story by Frank O'Connor.

They were asked to recognize the emotional and/or rational logic of the story and analyze how the writer's style shapes and shades his meaning.

In June, students who achieved and improved the most over the course of the year will receive medals and certificates.

ON THE JOB

SEWICKLEY WEBELO Den from Pack 243 got a first hand look of the Edgeworth Elementary renovation project while they toured the construction site as part of an instructional activity to earn their Engineer badge. The boys were able to visit the site because of the kind individuals from Eckles Architecture and JS Smith Construction Services, who took personal time to show the boys around. Architect Cassie Renninger of Eckles Architecture explained how architects and engineers work together in designing a plan for construction and how the different disciplines of engineering are critical to completing a well constructed building. Project Manager Scott Smith and Assistant Construction Manager Don Szymarek of J.S. Smith Construction Services gave the boys a guided tour. Taking part were (front, from left) Seba Pereira, Joey Havens, Andy Schlosser, Roy Hadfield, Kevin Zhu, Gino Saad, Luke Otto, Weston Colby and Will Ferris; (back row) Scott Smith, Don Szymarek and Cassie Renninger with her son Ben.

IN CONCERT

Two local churches hold Sunday concerts for the public

Sewickley United Methodist Church will host "Music Among Friends," a relaxed 90 minutes celebrating the art of making music, on Sunday, May 15, at 3 p.m. in the sanctuary. This is the third year for this event.

Featured among this year's musicians will be well-known guitarist James Ferla, playing four sets of solo works ranging from Renaissance/Baroque to contemporary and traditional flamenco.

It is a free concert, although a "freewill" box will be available.

A "Meet the Artists" reception in the Simpson Room will follow the concert.

Co-founded in 2003 by Sharon Schaefer, music director at SUMC, and Richard Stout, then the FAYM director at SUMC,

"Music Among Friends" is an intimate look at local musicians.

It is presented as a gift to the community and meant to enrich musical appreciation.

Young musicians are invited to come and hear old and new music and to be inspired to musical greatness of their own.

Ferla teaches guitar at Carnegie Mellon University and the University of Pittsburgh.

He has performed throughout the United States including programs at the Smithsonian, the Chautauqua Institution and Wolf Trap.

He performs most frequently in a guitar duo with colleague.

He also has performed with the Pittsburgh Symphony, Quartetto Latin-americano, Renaissance City Winds, and with PSO oboist Cynthia Koleda DeAlmeida, among others.

■ The Presbyterian Church, Sewickley will present "Organ Plus" on Sunday, May 15, at 3 p.m.

This concert will feature Craig Dobbins, the church's director of music ministries.

Dobbins will perform solo organ works by Dietrich Buxtehude, Johann Sebastian Bach and others.

He will be assisted by organist Judith Beswick in playing two organ duets.

With Harold Smoliar, principal English horn of the Pittsburgh Symphony Orchestra, Dobbins will perform compositions by Jan Koetsier and Karl Mille.

The church is located at the corner of Beaver and Grant streets, Sewickley.

PERFORMING IN Sunday's concert will be (above) Craig Dobbins, director of music ministries at The Presbyterian Church, Judith Beswick and Harold Smoliar.

Antioch hosts Women's Day

Members of Antioch Baptist Church, Sewickley, have planned a Women's Day Celebration Service for Sunday, May 15, at 10:45 a.m.

The theme is "A capable, intelligent and virtuous woman. Who is he who can find her? She is far more precious than jewels and her value is far above rubies or pearls." Proverbs 31:10.

The speakers will be Sister Lora Hubbard of Mt. Ararat Baptist Church, Pittsburgh; Sister Lucinda Wade of the Church of God in Christ of Coraopolis; and Sister Lisa Goldsmith of Mt. Olive Baptist Church in Coraopolis.

The Gospel Senders, soloists and mimes will participate.

The church is located on Elizabeth Street in Sewickley.

Center for Hope event

Officers and members of Fellowship United Methodist Church will celebrate the fifth-year anniversary of their pastors, the Rev. Dr. Fred D. Smith Jr. and Rev. Emma Smith, on Friday, May 13, from 6:30-11:30 p.m.

It will be held at Franze's-Javy's, 1300 Merchant St., Ambridge. Master of ceremonies will be the Rev. Dr. J.

Lavon Kincaid Sr., pastor of Laketon Heights United Methodist Church.

The Rev. Dr. Ronald Edward Peters, director of Pittsburgh Theological Seminary's Metro-Urban Institute, will be the main speaker.

The Kenny Powell Quartet will entertain.

Tickets are $25 each and may be purchased at the church or Center for Hope office, 233 Merchant St., Ambridge, or by calling 724-266-8636.

Proceeds will support the Center for Hope.

Veterans' Tribute

St. Andrew's United Presbyterian Church, Sewickley, will hold a special Memorial Day/Veterans' Tribute in worship on Sunday, May 29.

The service begins at 11 a.m., and will include a bagpipe procession, special patriotic music and the flag folding ceremony.

Veterans are invited to gather in the Fellowship Room at 10:45, and wear or bring something which signifies their particular branch of the armed forces.

Refreshments will follow. The church is located at 801 Beaver St.

New turf lives up to promise

Long gone are the days of dirt. (I'm not talking about Pittsburgh's conspicuously clean mayoral race.)

Now that Quaker Valley has an artificial surface at Chuck Knox Stadium in McNamara Park, the school is becoming the venue du jour for sports organizations.

Jerry Veshio, QV athletics director, mentioned when the stadium reopened last year that he expected the new field, additions and upgrades to the surrounding parking lot area to attract some WPIAL playoff games.

The promise materialized as QV hosted two WPIAL soccer playoff games last season.

And lately, the payoff is getting bigger.

A new Beaver/Allegheny County minor league football team will play home games at Knox, the obvious locale for the dual-county team as it sits on the border.

What a great break for a school that has a struggling football program. Perhaps having a competitive home team will breathe some life into QV's high school program.

The school district also will make a pretty penny off the deal to the tune of $6,250. The stadium will host five Beaver County Warriors home games at $1,000 per game. The extra $250 per game will cover lighting and other expenses.

Profits will go to the district and Veshio said he does not know how the money will be used.

It would certainly be a gesture of confidence if the district used at least a percentage of the profits to bolster its athletic programs, particularly football.

With no varsity wins in the past three years, the Quakers are barely a presence in WPIAL.

A few extra bucks for the home team would seem appropriate.

Quakers bag double

QV earns playoff berth, defeats Panthers

Joe Scherer pitches a three-hitter to help Quakers to a 4-0 victory over S.S. Beaver
By Jon Paul Creese

Sports editor

Saturday proved a great day for Quaker Valley and Sewickley Academy baseball.

The Quakers bagged two wins and earned a playoff berth and the Academy played an excellent game against a Class AA powerhouse, racking up eight runs against QV.

Though the Academy did not claim the victory, head coach Bill Holzworth registered his feelings about the team's effort.

"We put up pretty good numbers today," he said of the 9-8 loss.

"We never gave up. Things are starting to click for us."

The Academy tied the game in the fifth inning, then tacked on another run to take the lead. The Quakers came back in the top of the sixth with a run to tie the game at 8-8.

They added one more in the seventh and Joe Scherer, junior, pitched a save for the Quakers.

"All of our hard work paid off. We just kept at it ... they made it easy."

- Greg Vecchi, head coach

Scherer, Sewickley Herald's Athlete of the Week, pitched a three-hitter against South Side Beaver in the first game of a QV double header Saturday.

The 4-0 victory ensured the Quakers a berth in WPIAL Class AA playoffs for the first time since 1987.

Head coach Greg Vecchi was elated Saturday after the second victory.

"I'm just happy for the team," he said. "All of our hard work paid off. We just kept at it ... they made it easy."

The Quakers faced Scott Dunn of S.S. Beaver, notably one of the best pitchers in WPIAL.

"We were very concerned about Scott," Vecchi said. "We prepared for him well by practicing hard."

"That paid off as well."

The Quakers have two more section games and Vecchi said, depending on the outcome of Monday's games, he will plan a strategy for the final game against Beaver tonight.

He said the key to the Quakers' success is they play hard for each other.

"I think we stuck together as a team," he said. "They are disciplined and they have fun doing it."

The 7-3 (section) Quakers host Beaver at 4 p.m. tonight.

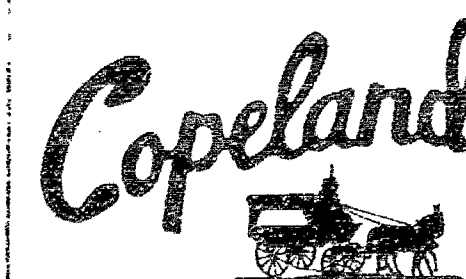

The Academy hosts Quigley at 4:30 p.m. tonight.

Thought for the Week

It seems that every day, every month and even every year has been given to someone, something or some cause. Pick a cause, there's a week for it! May is no exception. It is, among other things, "Senior Citizen Month". We would like to share some thoughts with you on this...

If you are a Senior Citizen, take a good look at yourself and your peers, and be proud of all you have accomplished...in the past and now, in your prime. You have the time to do all those things you put off in your youth because "the kids" or "the job" came first.

If you aren't one, take a look at all the senior power that fills your life. You, your family, your town, would be less today without those wonderful folks called "seniors". Take care of "Senior Citizen Month" and hug your favorite seniors today...and every day...THEY DESERVE IT!

Panthers stun Quakers with 17 goals

A backyard brawl turns out in Sewickley's favor as team continues to gel

By Jon Paul Creese

Sports editor

The Panthers gave QV a night to remember Friday night at Chuck Knox Stadium.

The Academy will not soon forget the 17-4 win either.

"We came out firing and won face offs," said SA head coach Evan Kurtz.

"We took all of the air out of their sails immediately."

The Panthers were up 10-1 going into the third quarter and continued to keep the pressure on QV for the remainder of the game.

"We definitely have cohesion," Kurtz said. "Things are starting to click."

Kurtz was speaking about a rocky early season start that the Panthers have turned around in the last few weeks.

Quaker Valley's Jackson VanYahres, who scored three of four QV goals Friday, attested to that.

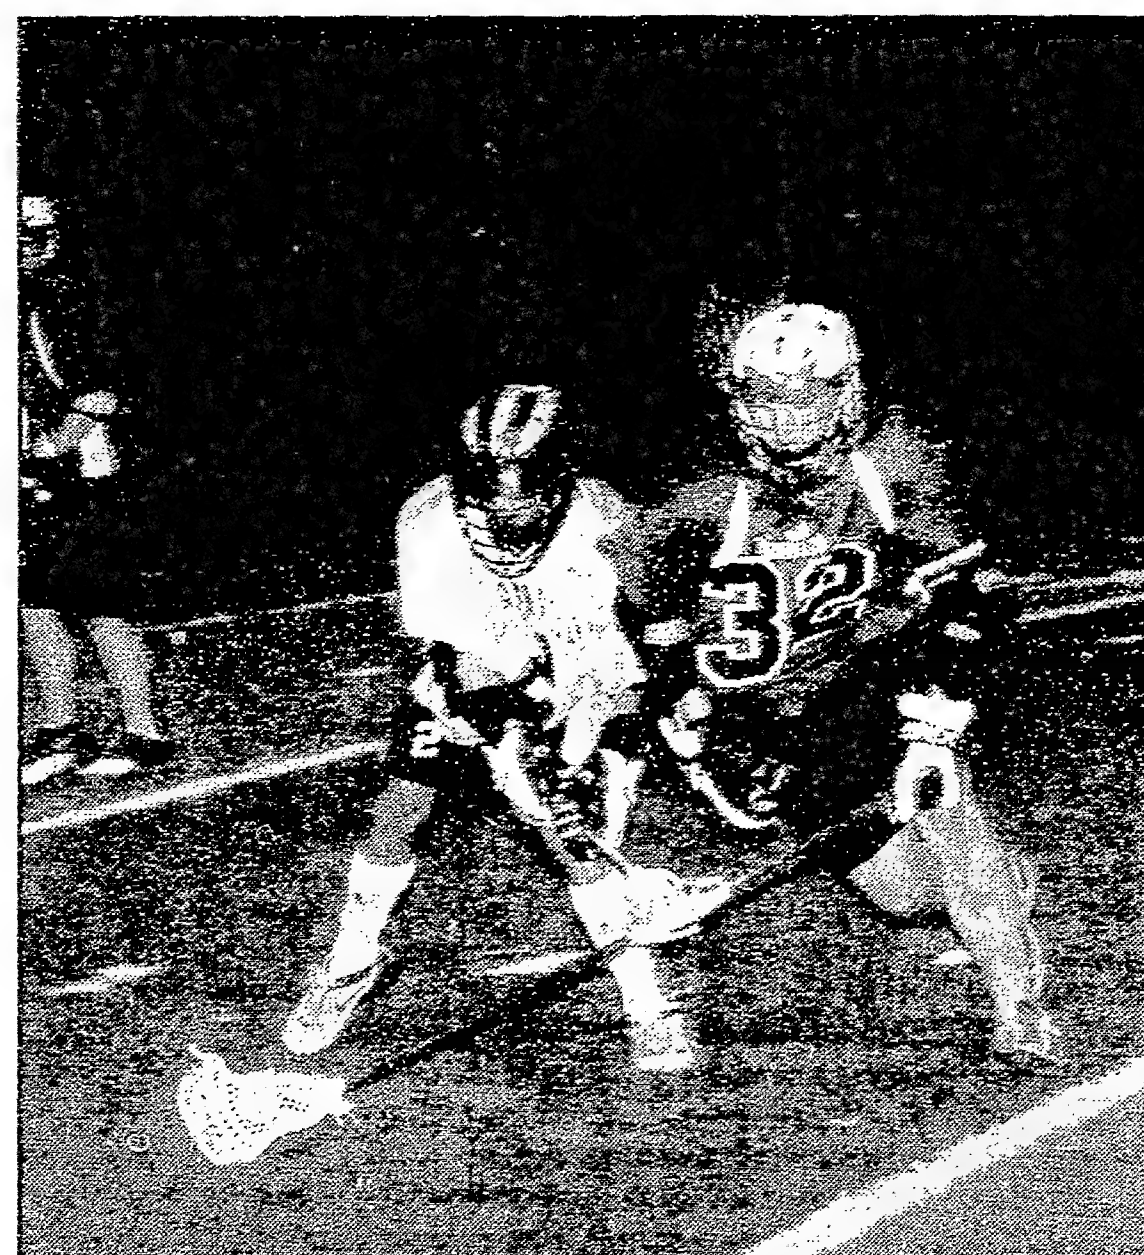

"They have the better program," he said. "We haven't caught up to them yet."

"It wasn't horrible," he added, noting the Quakers played much of the game with cohesion.

"At points we played together, but sometimes it just fell apart. They just totally controlled the game."

The Quaker Valley lacrosse program was started five years ago, and this year the team is adjusting to the dynamics of a new head coach, Bill Marcotte.

Kurtz is also in his first year as head coach and the Academy is beginning to enjoy success.

The Panthers are 4-2 in section play.

"If the game is out of the area, they're not kind to us," he said of the tougher teams outside WPSLA.

Kurtz said much of their success Friday was due to senior Tom Laughlin and junior Brad Watts.

Laughlin and Watts scored five goals each against QV.

"They were the consistent finishers," Kurtz said.

"They were the guys who eventually put the ball in the back of the net."

"They've both been solid players all year."

Also scoring for the Academy were Scott Fetterolf, Andrew Bryson and Peirce Liefeld, with two goals each, and Spencer Cercone with one goal.

Noah Zamagias scored one goal for the Quaker.

Lady Quakers place fourth in sprints

Submitted by Randi Morgan

The Quaker Valley Crew Team raced in the Scholastic Sprints last weekend, an event held on Lake Arthur in Moraine State Park.

Teams from 20 area schools participated, including Fox Chapel, Mt. Lebanon, North Allegheny, Shaler, Pine Richland and Upper St. Clair.

The regatta is a two-day event, starting with novice events on Saturday, and varsity events on Sunday.

Quaker Valley's women's novice 4 placed fourth in their event, with a time of 8:37.77.

Notre Dame Academy of Toledo, Ohio, won the event with a time of 7:39.59.

Rowers in the novice 4 (depicted above) were Lauren Castner, Molly Findley, Claire Kifer and Stockard Hyjek, with Max Garber as coxswain. (Sunday's results were not available as of deadline.)

This was the second race of the season; the Jewel Cup held the prior weekend on the Allegheny River, just off Washington's Landing.

The last race of the season will be the Midwest Youth Championships, May 21-22, in Cincinnati.

ATHLETE OF THE WEEK

Joe Scherer comes through with three-hitter Saturday

Junior pitcher leads QV to 4-0 victory over S.S. Beaver before pitching a seventh inning save on a double header day

By Jon Paul Creese
Sports editor

Joe Scherer has brought a lot to the Quakers this year. And last week he topped it off when it counted.

The QV junior pitched a three hitter Saturday against South Side Beaver, one of the top teams in the section, helping the Quakers earn a WPIAL AA playoff berth.

This marks the first season since 1987, when QV won the section, that the school will enter the playoffs.

And that has the whole team excited.

"It makes me feel great," he said, but quickly accredited his teammates for the Quaker's success. "I only had three strike outs. I was comfortable with my fielders behind me."

Scherer said he felt he redeemed himself after the first game against S.S. Beaver this year when he pitched eight hits and two home runs.

The Quakers still won that game and are currently 7-3 in the section.

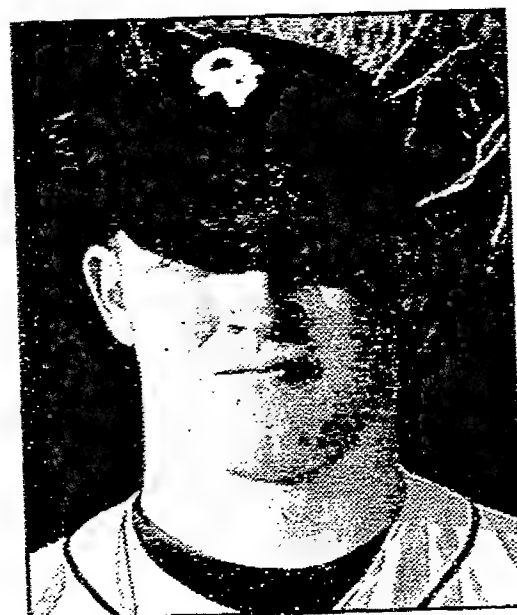

Scherer went on to save the Quakers from going into overtime against Sewickley Academy Saturday during the second game of a double header.

"I knew I had three strike outs in my arm," he said after helping the Quakers defeat the Panthers 9-8 at Nichols field.

Scherer also had success at bat last week.

He hit 10 of 21 in five games,

 - Accomplishment: Scherer pitched a three hitter Saturday against one of the top section teams, helping QV to earn a playoff berth. He also pitched a save against the Academy.

earning three doubles and seven singles.

"We knew they would try to knock us out," head coach Greg Vecchi said of South Side. "Scherer buckled down and really went at them."

Scherer is one of Vecchi's most versatile players, as he is also dependable behind the plate.

"He understands the game,"

Vecchi said. "He can judge batters as a catcher and that helps him understand pitching more."

"He works well on the mound and as catcher."

Scherer started playing T-ball when he was five and developed a love for baseball.

One of his biggest inspirations is QV assistant coach Charlie Frederick.

"Mr. Frederick was a big inspiration," he said. "He's like another player. He has fun with us and he's a great coach."

Scherer said QV's success lies in the team's ability to work together and feels the Quakers will offer some tough competition in the playoffs.

"It was a team effort against S.S. Beaver," he said. "We had timely hits by everybody."

Scherer hopes to continue playing baseball in college.

Academically, his interests are math and physics.

"Numbers," he said. "I've always been good with numbers. It's just second nature to me."

And winning ball games must also become second nature to Scherer and his fellow Quakers.

They have won all of their last 5 games, not including Monday's game against New Brighton.

SEWICKLEY REAL ESTATE

Howard Hanna sponsors Twilight Tour tonight

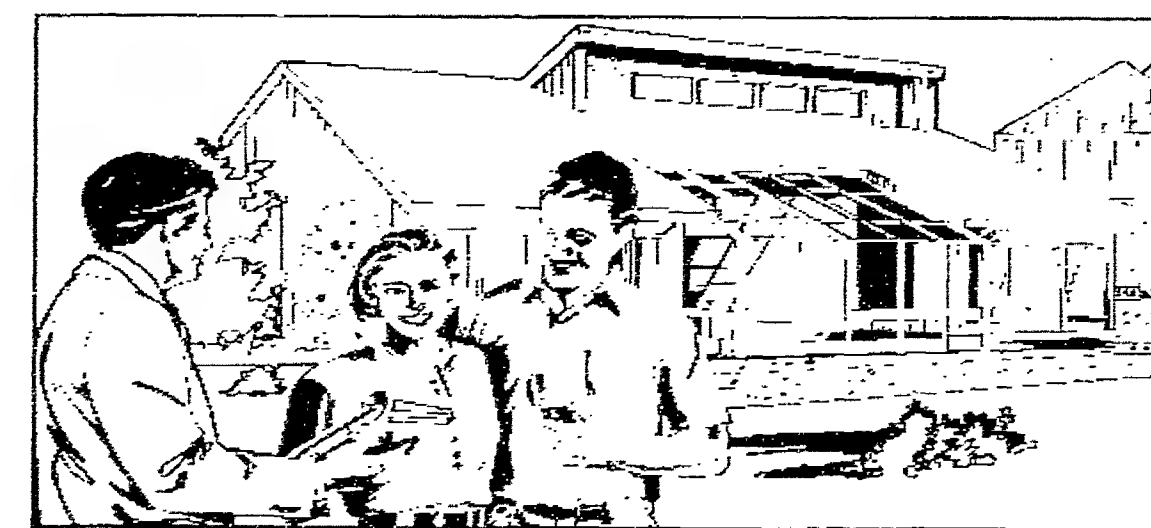

Howard Hanna Real Estate Services will kick off its 9th annual summer season of Twilight Tours tonight (Wednesday) in Baldwin and Whitehall, offering a fantastic alternative to Sunday's traditional open house.

IN THE NEWS

The Twilight Tour is designed to maximize the home buying experience, offering a vast selection of homes in one concentrated area, allowing people to browse several homes in their desired area in a short period of time.

Homes will be showcased in various communities throughout the region all summer long.

"We at Howard Hanna are excited to begin our annual Twilight Open Houses again this year," said Howard W.

"Hoddy" Hanna III, president and CEO of Howard Hanna Real Estate Services.

"During the summer months, our customers can leisurely look at homes, and this year, we will feature special twilight financing options through Howard Hanna Mortgage. Many homes also offer our exclusive 100 percent money back guarantee."

Howard Hanna hosts the Wednesday evening Twilight

Tours in addition to regular Sunday open houses, giving home buyers plenty of convenient opportunities to find the perfect new home during the busy summer home buying season.

The 2005 season of Twilight Tours will kick off tonight from 6-8 in Baldwin and Whitehall.

A listing of open houses will be available in the Tuesday, May 10 edition of the Post-Gazette, as well as at www.howardhanna.com.

Howard Hanna Real Estate Services and Smythe, Cramer Co. form the 8th largest full-service real estate company and the 4th largest privately held real estate company in the United States.

They are a full-service company specializing in residential and commercial brokerage service, mortgages, closing and title insurance, home building and land development, appraisal services, insurance services, and corporate relocation.

The combined company has 109 offices across Pennsylvania, Ohio, New York and West Virginia, and employs more than 3,000 sales associates and staff.

Visit the Web sites at www.howardhanna.com or www.smythecramer.com for more information.

REAL ESTATE TODAY

When you think of "online shopping," you envision browsing through pages of results for clothing, music CDs and movie DVDs, collectibles, sporting merchandise, almost anything you can imagine. But what about your home? Are you going to add a three-bedroom, two-and-a-half bath with fenced yard to your "shopping cart" and proceed to check out with your credit card information?

Don't Get Caught In This Web

Betty Moraca
NRE CRS, CRS, GRI

It may seem like a ridiculous scenario, but the reason people look for (and sell) things online is the convenience. It may seem harmless enough to browse the offerings on "For Sale By Owner" websites, but be wary of the information presented there. Like elsewhere on the web, misinformation abounds.

If you want to begin your search from the comfort of your home while relaxing in your pajamas, start by looking at what licensed real estate agencies are offering. You can find "virtual tours" and link to neighborhood information that are backed up by the agency offering the listings. As it states right now, you don't get much protection from do-it-yourself listing sites.

Be aware that these "For Sale By Owner" websites are not yet regulated and not held to the same high standards that you expect from a real estate professional. The Internet might be a great place to start your research, but ultimately meet with a professional face-to-face to guarantee both your legal rights and home buying satisfaction.

SEWICKLEY REAL ESTATE

DESIGN OF THE WEEK

Braxton plan features stucco, brick design

Spacious and bright, the Braxton is a large stucco and brick home designed for an active couple that likes to entertain and appreciates having plenty of room to spread out.

A lofty portico invites you to step inside the wide, 14-foot high entry.

Sparkling panes of glass flank the front and cut an arched swath above it, creating an elegant foyer awash with light.

Directly ahead, two sets of slender columns support another arched opening, leading into a coffered-ceilinged great room, richly glassed at the rear.

Double doors at the end of the hallway to the left open into a lavish master suite that has a huge walk-in closet, private bath, and its own sitting bay and screened porch.

Master bath features include twin basins, a spa brightened by glass blocks, oversized shower and enclosed toilet.

Another set of double doors opens into a study. Outfitted with its own bathroom, this room could serve as a home office.

The large utility/sewing room has a utility tub, a pull-down ironing board and built-in counters for folding clothes.

Counter space in the large kitchen is expanded by a work island and an eating bar. Bay windows brighten the nook.

The dining room has a built-in buffet, and in the family room, windows flank the fireplace.

Two sets of sliding glass doors access backyard terraces.

The Braxton can be adapted to accommodate children or other house mates by converting the den to a bedroom.

In this scenario, the fireplace in the den would face the opposite direction, warming the master suite instead.

The guest suite has yet another private bathroom for convenience.

For a review plan, including scaled floor plans, elevations, section and artist's conception, send $25 to Associated Designs, 1100 Jacobs Dr., Dept. W, Eugene, OR 97402.

Specify the Braxton 11-040 and include a return address when ordering.

A catalog featuring more than 400 home plans is available for $15.

For more information about this design or the many others that are available on the Web site, call (800) 634-0123, or visit our website at www.associatedesigns.com.

BID ADVERTISEMENT CONTRACT NUMBER: 30-48-94 WESTBURY STANDPIPE COATINGS AND REPAIRS

Sealed Bids are requested by the Findlay Township Municipal Authority at the Authority Office, 1271 State Route 30, P.O. Box 409, Clinton, PA 15026 until 4:00 P.M. prevailing time, Tuesday, June 7, 2005 for the furnishing of all labor and materials for the coatings and repairs to a 750,000 gallon steel welded standpipe water storage tank as the WESTBURY STANDPIPE COATINGS AND REPAIRS project. Bids will be opened publicly and read aloud immediately after the closing time for receipt of Bids.

Interested parties may view the Profile and Bid Schedule for this Project on the internet at: www.niraengineers.com.

Copies of the Bid Documents may be examined at the office of the Findlay Township Municipal Authority or at the office of NIRA Consulting Engineers, Inc., 950 Fifth Avenue, Coraopolis, Pennsylvania 15108. Copies thereof may be obtained from the office of NIRA Consulting Engineers, Inc. upon payment of a non-refundable sum of $50.00. An additional charge of $10.00 will be required for mailing of Plans and Specifications. Checks are to be made payable to NIRA Consulting Engineers, Inc. Bids must be submitted on the forms provided, and completed in strict accordance with the instructions provided. Each Bid must be accompanied by a Bid Bond in the form of a Certified Check or Corporate Surety Bid Bond, in the amount of ten percent (10%) of the Bid Proposal made in the favor of the Findlay Township Municipal Authority.

There will be a mandatory pre-bid meeting on Thursday, May 26, 2005 at 10:00 A.M. at the project site on Red Deer Lane, Findlay Township, near Imperial, PA to discuss all aspects of the Project. All Contractors bidding this project must be present at this meeting.

A Performance Bond, Labor and Material Payment Bond, and Maintenance Bond in the amounts specified within the Contract Documents will be required of the successful Bidder. All Contractors bidding this project shall provide documentation of having repaid five (5) potable water storage tanks within 30 months of the bid date. All Contractors bidding this project shall provide the LHASP, Fall Protection Plan, and Confined Space Plan.

Findlay Township Municipal Authority is an Equal Opportunity Employer. As such, Minority Business Enterprises (MBEs) and Women Business Enterprises (WBEs) are encouraged and invited to actively participate in the bidding process.

Bidders on this work will be required to comply with the Provisions of the Pennsylvania Prevailing Wage Act 442. The Prevailing Wage Scale is included in these Specifications.

Adherence to Instructions to Bidders is required.

No Bid or any part thereof shall be withdrawn by Bidder for a period of sixty (60) days subsequent to the Bid Opening.

The right is reserved by the Owner to reject any and/or all Bids, totally or in part, or to waive informalities in any Bid.

— Franchising — A great business opportunity —

(NAPSI)-More and more people in today's job market feel disenfranchised; it's no surprise that many of them are taking control of their financial futures through franchising.

Call it what you will—"taking charge of your life," a desire to "be your own boss." However, starting your own business is scary for many, hence more and more are turning to buying a franchise. Fact is, the desire to own your own business is leading thousands of people each month to visit the busiest franchise opportunity Web site on the planet-BeTheBoss1.com.

Affiliated with Monster.com, the BeTheBoss1.com Web site is a Virtual Franchise Expo. Giving people an easily accessible cyber link to detailed information about more than 150 of today's hottest franchise opportunities-plus direct links to all of them. For anyone looking to buy their own business, this is the place to start.

Rosanne Lapierre was one of these people. "We discovered Candy Bouquet through BeTheBoss. Three months later, we purchased a Candy Bouquet franchise which we've been running for six months. We're already profitable and couldn't be happier!"

The BeTheBoss1.com site is designed to give searchers all the information they're seeking.

A simple "click" on Franchising and you will be given a complete educationfrom which franchises are the hottest, to learning the basics of franchising.

For example, people can learn why franchising may be the safest way to start a business-offering a much lower risk of failure than independent businesses. They'll learn how franchise systems offer investors the experience of a proven business system with a built-in marketing team-adding credence to the adage that by owning a franchise you will "be in business for yourself, but not by yourself."

Searchers will gain valuable information from "The Five Steps of Franchising," "How to Secure Financial Assistance," and find help with "Start Up," the most difficult aspect of any business. The site even includes direct links to the industry's best franchise events. In fact, click on "BeTheBoss Expo" to see if there is a franchise expo coming to your area soon.

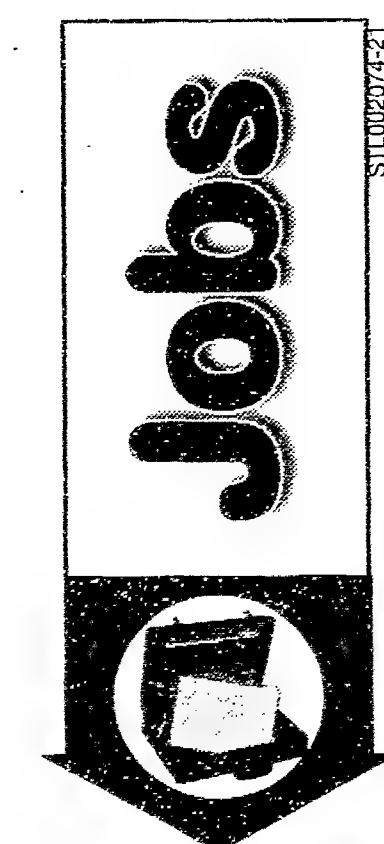

In addition, visitors to the site are given the opportunity to select a specific industry of interest, explore various levels of investment and finally, register to be contacted by the franchise system that they would like to investigate.

Being able to obtain this much information in one location, without leaving your computer, it's almost unbelievable.

For more information, visit www.BeTheBoss1.com or call 201-226-1130.

— Key tips for building a safe home —

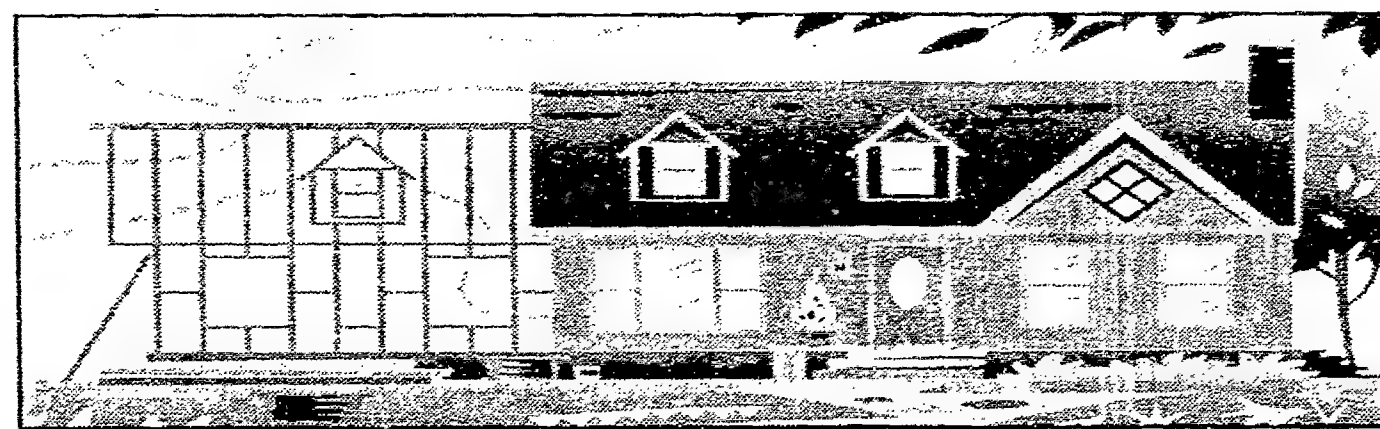

(NU) - Building a new home is supposed to be one of life's most exciting events. But people are often disenchanted by having to make technical decisions about things they don't understand.

One wrong move could potentially affect the quality and safety of your home and put your family's safety at risk in an unsafe environment.

So how can you be sure you make the right building decisions? The first thing you need to do is visit www.codeplushome.com on the Internet. There you will find all sorts of information about building a safe home and finding the highest quality engineered wood materials.

Code Plus sets the standard to ensure that when you build your home, you have the top structural performance above the minimum building code specifications.

For example, Code Plus structural panels help tie the roof and floor of the house to the foundation, making the whole house two to three times more resistant to hurricanes and earthquakes.

But that's not the only benefit you'll get using Code Plus brand. You'll also be much more secure knowing that your floors are solid and squeak free, that your walls are structurally sound and that the roof resists buckling. Best of all, when you decide to sell your home, Code Plus brings you added value on the real estate market.

"Code Plus is a way for home buyers to identify builders and remodelers who subscribe to quality construction," says Dennis Hardman, vice president of marketing for The Engineered Wood Association (APA). "The APA requirements for participating Code Plus contractors are a checklist that quality-conscious home buyers can use to evaluate the structural features of a home."

While there are many critical decisions to make when building a home, choosing the right contractor is also very important. By asking the right questions during the selection process and making sure the right methods and materials are used, you can prevent problems before they arise.

The APA, a nonprofit trade association representing mills that make about 75 percent of the structural wood panels made in North America, has developed guidelines to help you find quality wood materials and build a safe home.

In selecting the right builder or remodelers, ask:

- Is the contractor licensed, bonded and insured?
- Will the contractor specify the quality, brand and grade of materials in writing?
- Does the contractor project a professional image?
- Is the contractor recommended by the local Better Business Bureau?
- Is the contractor a Code Plus building or remodeler?

For more information on the program or for names of Code Plus builders and remodelers in our area, call 1-800-838-9972 or visit www.codeplushome.com.

OSI Expands operations at Robinson Township facility

Outsourcing Solutions Inc. (OSI) has hired more than 100 new employees less than a year after joining the Robinson Township community.

More than 600 people are now based at its state-of-the-art facility, and the company plans to continue adding to its workforce in the near future.

OSI's mission is to provide its clients with the most effective receivables management solutions.

operations, credits the company's values and a commitment to its local communities for OSI's excellence.

These values include maintaining a client focus, team orientation, accountability, integrity and respect for individuals.

Because outreach to the local community is important to OSI, the Robinson Township office has partnered with the Central Blood Bank and Greater Pittsburgh Community Food Bank.

OSI's commitment to the community is also evident in its plans to continue to recruit talented self-starters with strong communication and problem-solving skills in the area to collections, customer service and call center work.

OSI is the nation's leading Business Process Outsourcing (BPO) accounts receivables firm.

OSI has two local offices and approximately 6,200 employees throughout the country.

Individuals who are seeking a career with a progressive and innovative company that offers opportunities for growth and advancement are encouraged to contact OSI.

— Transform your deck in two easy steps —

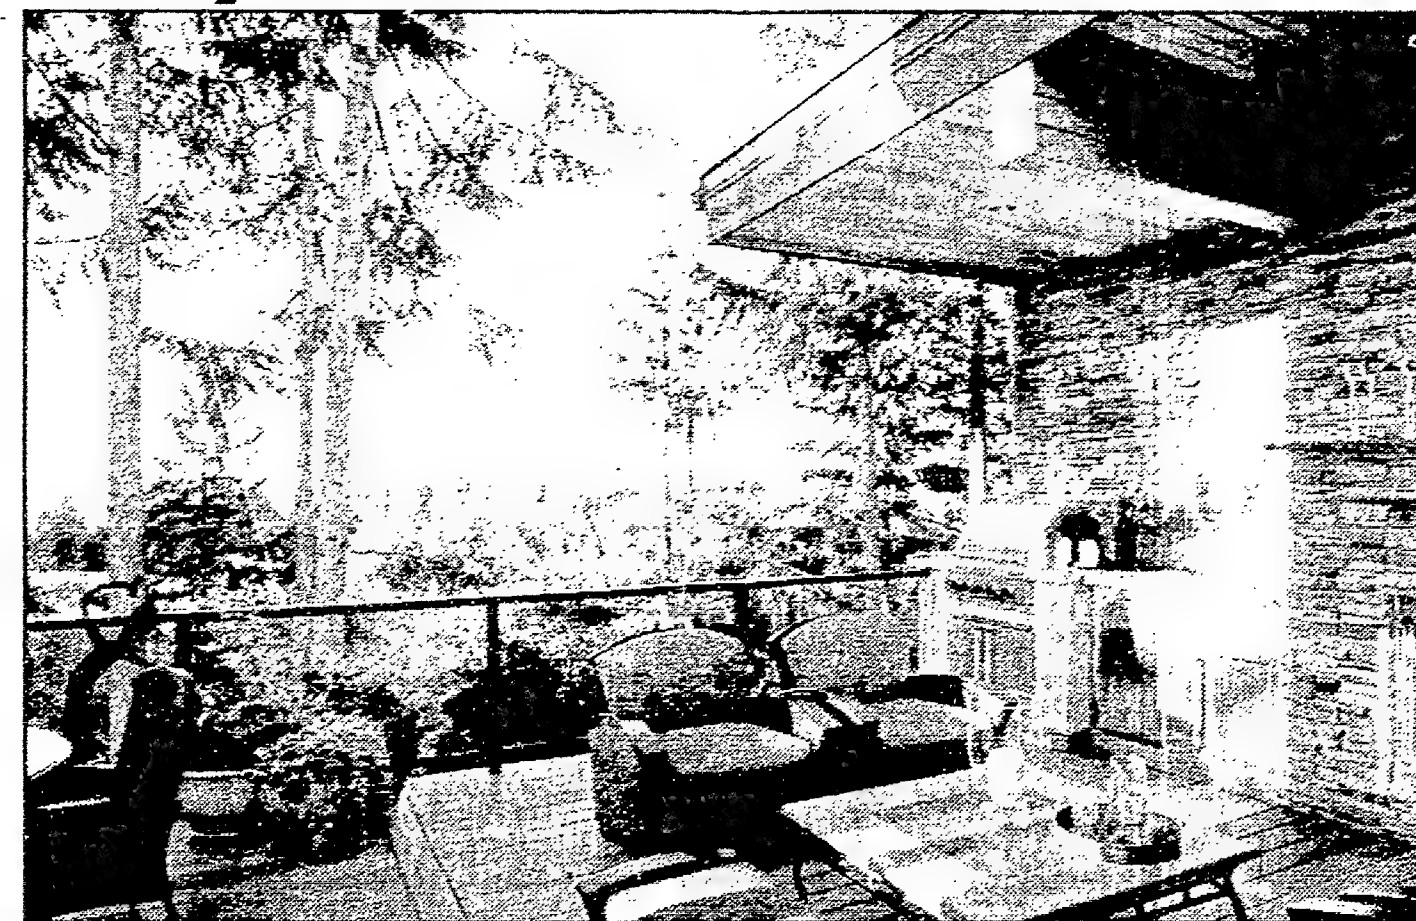

(NAPSI)-No matter how beautiful yours looked last spring, it's probably dirty, mildew-stained and wearing a coat of gray after the long, wet winter.

But don't worry. It's easy to transform your deck from dingy to beautiful in two easy steps. Here's some advice from the deck experts at Wolman Wood Care Products:

Step 1: Clean & Restore: Before you apply a protective finish or color, dirt and gray weathered wood should be cleaned away with an acid-free, biodegradable deck cleaner, like Wolman DeckBrite Wood Cleaner & Coating Prep.

DeckBrite is tough on ground-in dirt, mildew and algae stains, yet it's gentle so it won't harm grass, plants or shrubs. Simply mix the powder concentrate with water, spray on, brush and rinse off with a garden hose. The fast-acting foaming action loosens and lifts dirt, stains and weathered-gray discoloration in 10 minutes or less.

Unlike chlorine bleach, which can degrade the structure of the wood, DeckBrite's oxygen-activated formula cleans and restores the wood to its original, like-new look without whitening or damaging the wood surface.

Step 2: Beautify & Protect: Once you've cleaned and prepared the deck surface, add color and protection in one easy step by applying a wood stain that offers superior durability, color longevity and maximum protection against all weather and climate conditions, such as Wolman DuraStain.

Rated the best semi-transparent wood stain for "wood worth showing off," DuraStain provides a richly pigmented, matte finish that resists fading and offers longer-lasting color and superior UV protection.

It's easy to apply by brush, pad or airless sprayer and just one coat of the quick-drying, water-based formula provides excellent coverage, offering great value for recoating and revitalizing wood.

DuraStain is guaranteed to prevent UV graying and water damage, and resist peeling and blistering and maintain the beauty of the wood for three years.

Since DuraStain is available in six tintable premix colors yielding 16 custom tints, it's easier to achieve any look you desire.

To learn more about restoring, protecting and beautifying your deck, call the Wolman Consumer Help Line at 1-800-556-7737 or visit wolman.com for more helpful deck care tips.

— Learn to travel well and safely —

(NAPSI)-Before hitting the books, college students often have to hit the road.

But there are a few things students should study regarding auto products and safety tips before they set off for college or set out on the road.

For those road trippers, here are some things to become more familiar with:

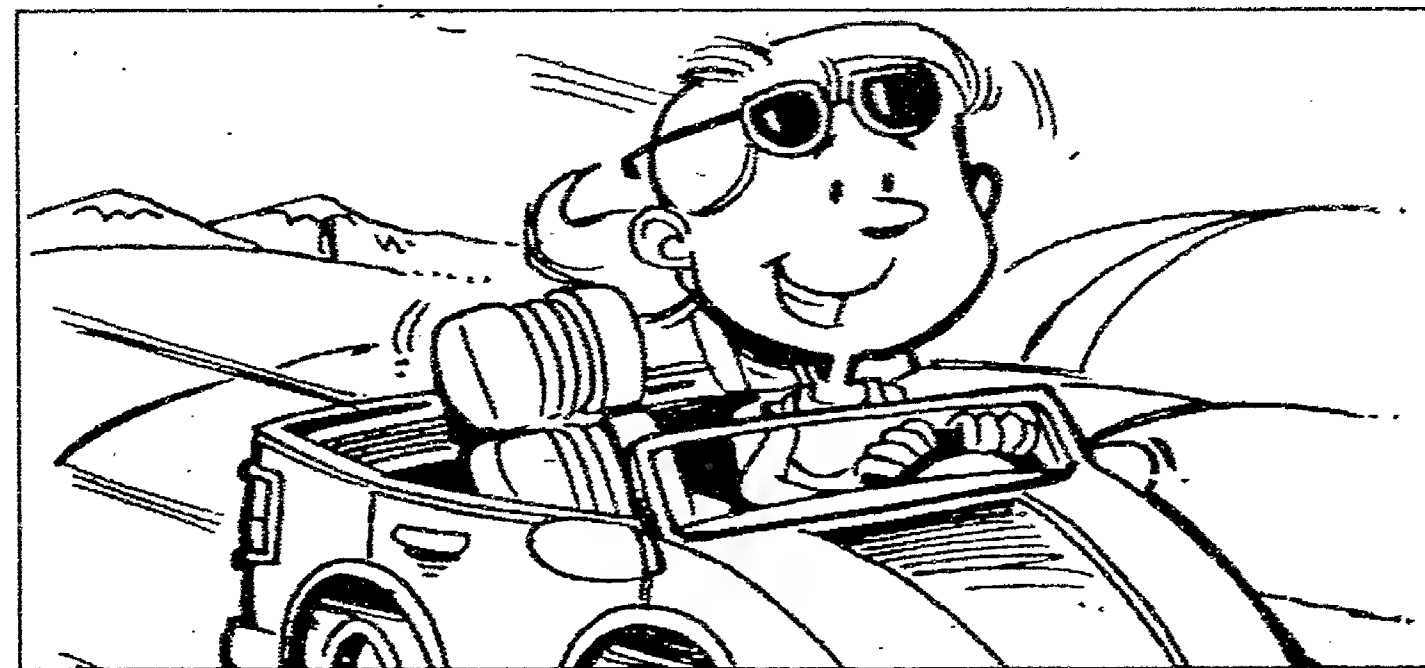

Mobile Entertainment

Adventures can start the moment a person gets into the car with mobile entertainment systems available at Pep Boys.

These items (for passengers) include portable TVs with VHS or DVD players, and don't forget the music with state-of-the-art CD players featuring XM radio capabilities.

Organization And Convenience

CD cases, hands-free cell phone kits, cell phone holders and 12V car cooler/warmers for snacks are great for long trips.

Style

To give a car style and personality, 2 Fast 2 Furious Street Glow products can be added. It's not only for stylin', it makes a car more visible for added safety when driving at night.

Safety

For safety's sake, consider a Pep Boys Reverse Sensing System by Echomaster.

Highly efficient sensors are flush mounted in the bumper to scan behind the vehicle for hidden objects every time it's put in reverse.

And don't get stranded-for a tow call 1-866-TOW-2PEP.

Maintenance

The first step before a long trip is to make sure the car is in top operating condition.

Before the trip, check all fluids including engine coolant, transmission fluid, engine oil and windshield washer fluid and be sure wiper blades can completely clear the windshield in three passes.

Car experts also suggest checking high and low beams, turn signals and brake lights.

For a car to perform at its best during a long trip, remember these facts:

- A rough running engine uses more gas more quickly than a properly tuned engine.

- Tire pressure: Under-inflation or over-inflation of tires can lead to decreased mileage.

- Air filters: Dirty air filters can cause your engine to run at less than peak efficiency.

- Oil: Higher viscosity oils have greater resistance to moving parts in the engine and use more gas.

- Driving style: Quick starts use more fuel than smooth, steady acceleration.

Make sure ASE-certified mechanics help you get the most out of your car. To learn more, log on to pep-boys.com.

Pasta and Passion

A Two-Wheeled Trek Through Italy

MIKE SEATE
Columnist

Though Pittsburgh tends to be a town in love with Harley-Davidson, our city is actually well-known as a hub of Italian motorcycle enthusiasts. In addition to the newly-opened BMW/Ducati of Pittsburgh dealership on Route 19 in Wexford, the recently closed Chiodo's Tavern in Homestead drew sizeable crowds with their popular Italian Bike Night for over a decade. And in nearby Stahlstown, Westmoreland County, Bob Smith's Moto-Cycle has offered locals some of Italy's most exotic, high-performance motorcycles for the past 20 years.

In addition to importing Italy's Bimota brand of bespoke Italian sportbikes, Smith was recently hired on to carry the full line of Benelli motorcycles, another Mediterranean marque combining the world-renowned stylishness and race-track levels of performance characteristic of Italian bikes. Smith recently invited this reporter to join a contingent of customers, investors and garden variety Italian bike nuts on a journey to the Benelli factory to see these thoroughbred machines being designed, assembled and, if we were lucky, raced. How could we say no?

The Benelli name isn't may not be as familiar to American riders as say, Ducati or Moto-Guzzi, but in Italy, the brand is practically a religious icon. Back in the 1950s and '60s, they produced some of the most stylish and sought-after two-wheelers on the planet and competed in Grand Prix races against the likes of MV Agusta, and British stalwarts Triumph, BSA and Norton. The firm ceased production in the late 1970s, but since 1996, have been making noise again with a spectacular, three-cylinder supersport machine known as the Tornado Tre (for three, named after its unique, tri-cylinder powerplant.)

The machines are produced in a tidy little factory located in the industrial city of Pesaro, a rocky, sun-drenched manufacturing center in the Italian mini-state of San Marino. A few minutes on the roads were enough to prove why the motorcycle industry had set up shop here: there were more beautiful curves to be seen here than at a Sophia Loren film festival, with dramatically rising mountain roads overlooking the Adriatic Sea.

A large number of motorcycles surrounded the building, testament to the passion employees feel for the machines they build. We were greeted at the gate by several friendly tour guides who wasted no time in walking us into the new production facility's main assembly area.

While many Italian motorcycle enthusiasts imagine these high-performance machines being built in tiny workshops by old world craftsmen dressed in ancient leather aprons, the Benelli operations center was as modern and high-tech as the motorcycles they produce. Rows of machines rolled along an automated assembly line as technicians attached individual parts until the distinct shape of these thoroughbred machines started to take form.

Though laid-back, cruising style motorcycles are the best-sellers in the U.S. market, the European riders favor quick, sharp-handling machines built to carve along twisty narrow roads. With this in mind, Benelli has launched two models, the fully-faired, 900cc Tornado, and a new model, known as the TNT. This angular, odd-looking motorcycle is as futuristic as George Jetson's house, with radial, racing-style brakes, computer-controlled electronic fuel injection and power to the three-cylinder 1,130cc engine controlled by a two-level delivery switch.

As luck would have it, the folks at Benelli had planned for our crew to have ago on their newest models. And not only had they arranged a ride, we'd get our opportunity to thrash the machines on the Misano Circuit race track, the same course where World Superbike legends like Troy Corser and Carl Fogarty became known.

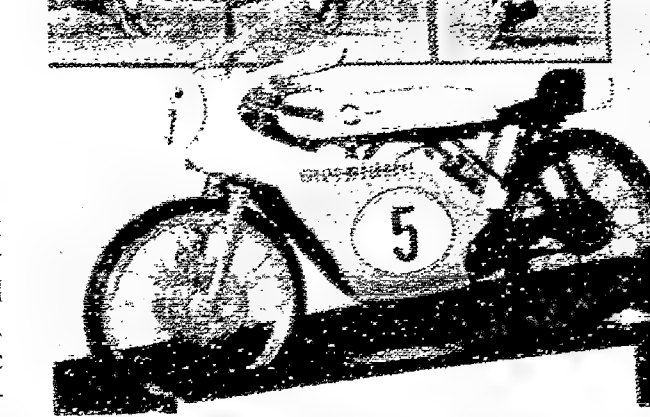

At the track, some of the same men and women we'd seen assembling new Benelli motorcycles were hard at play, blasting around the curves like pros. After a few slow laps learning the course, both the fully-faired Tornado and the TNT proved to be nimble, lightning quick machines. With their classic green and silver livery, it's not hard to imagine Benelli challenging Duacti, Aprilia and Moto-Guzzi when the bikes arrive in the U.S. later this year.

Piling back into our vans, the crew headed back to Pesaro where we visited a massive collection of historic motorcycles at the Morbidelli Museum. The entire collection of some 400 machines is owned and maintained by Giancarlo Morbidelli, a cheerful, talkative scion of the Italian woodworking industry. While walking us through jaw-dropping row upon row of vintage race cars and motorcycles, Morbidelli explained how a lifelong passion for motorsports led him to amass such a large collection. "My wife, by now she thinks I'm crazy," he joked, though Morbidelli's impressive resume suggests otherwise: his hand-built prototypes won some of Europe's most prestigious races during the 1970s and over the years, he's employed some of the world's best racers - including current Moto GP champ Valentino Rossi - to ride them.

Next came a awe-inspiring ride across the Italian Alps to Munich to check out the rest of the world's new motorcycles at the annual Internorm motorcycle expo, and eventually, a very exhausted flight back to the states. Smith says his first Benelli motorcycles are on view in his Stahlstown showroom, now, so don't be surprised to see the Benelli name on the next bike that comes rocketing past.

What All Drivers Should Know About Motorcycles

A.B.A.T.E. of Pennsylvania

- Motorcyclists often slow by downshifting or merely rolling off the throttle, thus not activating the brake light. Allow more following distance, say 3 or 4 seconds. At intersections, predict a motorcycle may slow down with out a visual warning.
- Turn signals on a motorcycle usually are not self-canceling, thus some riders, (especially beginners) sometimes forget to turn them off after a turn or lane change. Make sure a motorcycle's signal is for real.
- Motorcyclists often adjust position within a lane to be seen more easily and to minimize the effect of wind, road debris, and passing vehicles. Understand that motorcycles adjust lane position for a purpose, not to be reckless or show off.
- Because of its small size a motorcycle seems to be moving faster than it really is. Don't think motorcyclists are speed demons.

- Because of its small size, a motorcycle may look further away than it is. When checking traffic to turn at an intersection, predict a motorcycle is closer than it looks.
- Because of its small size, a motorcycle can easily be hidden by objects inside or outside of a car, such as: door posts, mirrors, passengers, bushes, fences, bridges, blind spots, etc. Take an extra moment to thoroughly check traffic whether your changing lanes or turning at intersections.
- Stopping distance for motorcycles is nearly the same as for cars, but slippery pavement makes quick stopping difficult. Allow a motorcyclist more following distance because it can't always stop "on a dime".
- Maneuverability is one of a motorcycle's better characteristics, but only at slower speeds and with good road conditions. Don't expect a motorcyclist to always be able to dodge out of the way.
- Carrying a passenger complicates a motorcyclist's task. Balance is more difficult. Stopping distance is increased. Maneuverability is reduced. Predict more problems when you see two on a motorcycle, especially near intersections.

My Iron Butt Adventure

LYNN M. WEASLY

Waking up a bit past midnight on 22 September, the year of our Lord 2004, I'm pretty excited. I did my test run before I took a nap to get the timedown pat to our rendezvous location. I was to make this run with three guys. We all made a pact that in the event anyone had mechanical difficulties, they were on their own so as not to mess up the other individuals' attempt at completing the run.

The original plan was to head to the Meeting of the Minds, which was to be held in St. Louis this year, by way of Iowa. Oh yeah, the starting point was right outside of Pittsburgh. Anyway, I'm excited, and sleepy. I copped about a three hour nap, wanted more, but I guess it just wasn't in the cards. Oh well, time to hustle, get dressed and out the door. (For any that know me, you know, I'm not exactly Miss Punctuality, try as I may.)

I kiss the kids, finish gearing up (I am also a cold weather wuss!) and unfortunately happen to pass a mirror on the way out. OH GAWD!! I look like a cross between Hannibal Lecter and Little Bo Peep! Oh well, let the journey begin.

I get to our meeting spot, and I'm the only one there. Hmm... Okay, check the time and lo and behold, I'm actually 5 minutes early! Wait around for a few minutes and start to become a bit antsy. Smoked another cigarette and started looking at maps. Fifteen minutes go by and still nobody. Of course I don't have a cell phone, and we planned to meet at a pull-off spot on the highway without any apparent sign of life, so calling to find out what's up isn't an option. Okay, decision time. I could either try to follow their route (which I really didn't have committed to memory) or hope to catch up somewhere along the way. That wasn't likely to happen. Or I could go on to the Meeting of the minds in St. Louis at a leisurely pace, but where's the adventure in that? Or I could simply try to figure how many miles I could put on the "BastrdPup" in the 24 hour period. Since I already had my first gas receipt time stamped, I was losing valuable time. (The gas receipts with time stamps along with odometer mileage readings are part of how you verify the actual miles completed in the allotted time frame.)

Running to the PA line was relatively quick and painless. Ohio had patchy, dense fog and seemed incredibly long. That may have had something to do with the coffee just not kicking in and also the decision to change my route mid-state which involved about 100 miles of backtracking. Finally made it through Ohio and the sun was shining strong as I neared Lexington, KY. I was ready to shake off some layers - get off the bike for a couple of minutes (and get some more coffee). All that done and I'm ready to rock. The rolling hills of Kentucky rolled on by. Great scenery, but I really didn't focus hard on it as I was trying to maintain speeds in excess of the posted limit with the main focus was being on the lookout for LEOs. I decided to do lunch in Nashville.

The miles continued to pile up, and so far, so good. Not a cloud in the sky, temps in the 70s. My mindset was, the better time I made, the more time I'd have to screw around when I had a reason to stop. When you do the math on paper, you're a 1,000-mile trip should take about 16 hours. Doesn't work that way in the real world. Gas stops, coffee, bathroom breaks, more coffee, traffic, detours and numerous other unexpected things WILL happen. (Did I say more coffee?) So I figured if I kept my running speed to 75mph, it would be a big plus. (We won't mention the times where there was nothing but open highway and the average speed simply went out the window.)

Immediately after crossing the Tennessee border, I pulled into the first rest stop. (I did have a U.S. Atlas, but the individual state maps are so much easier to work with - I could fold them up and duct tape them to the gas tank for quick reference.) I was preparing to put this place behind me, when the next thing I know I was having a close encounter with the highway patrol kind, who was obviously having a bad day.

Okay, I'm parked here - at the rest stop - and the young officer asks if I intend to wear my "beanie" helmet in 'his' state. The questionable headgear is hanging off my saddle bag - and he's hitting it with his nightstick while making his inquiry, which surely didn't put us off to the best possible start. (I had enough good sense not to tell him that my original intentions were to not wear a helmet, period!) So I rambled off something to the effect of, "Yes, officer, of course I planned on wearing a helmet in your state." That went over like a lead balloon.

I asked if he would simply write me a ticket and let me be on my way. Not good enough. He threatened to have my scooter impounded if I made ANY move to leave. Well, I guess in a way, it was partially my fault for not doing my homework and finding out what Tennessee law actually specified, but still I was in no position to call his bluff.

While I'm thinking, "Fine mess you got us into this time, Ollie, and how the %^&* are you gonna get us out of it?", he is busy enumerating an impressive list of charges that he was ready to throw at me. Okay, he did go overboard with some of them, but I still wasn't sure if he was for real or just playing tough guy.

He suggested I, "call someone" to bring me a real lid. I informed him that I lived in Pittsburgh. He in turn responded that wasn't his problem. Hmm... No time like the present to kick back and think about my dilemma. I threw my feet up on the handle bars and leaned back on my gear. Figure I can't really go anywhere, so I might as well relax.

After a few minutes, the young officer became quite a bit flustered and decided that I couldn't rest at the rest stop. (HUH?) After going through a number of other equally mindless possibilities, he decided the best case scenario would be for me to remove my presence from 'his' state. He informed me to go to the next exit (the exact route I was planning to take to Nashville), turn around and go back to the Wal-Mart right across the border in Kentucky where I should purchase a "real" helmet before re-entering 'his' state. The most amusing part was when he told me he would be waiting there (on the opposite side of a divided highway, no less) to make sure I followed his instructions. O.K., Buddy! See ya!

Well, the exit where he suggested I turn around contained some of the most picturesque two lane all the way to Nashville, where I copped a quick sandwich and got journey behind me, and my benind into a nice hot tub. Then the Gremlins start... Okay, I've been on the bike a 1-o-n-g time, maybe I'm just hearing things, maybe I'm just getting paranoid, maybe I had way too much caffeine and it's affecting my overly tired brain. Hey, it happens, ya know? %$*#!#! Maybe not. Uh-oh, as in big time UH-OH - you know that sinking feeling you get in the pit of your stomach when you start hearing that rhythmic metal on metal hit? Got it, loud and clear.

Nursed the bike to the next exit, checked all I could, made a couple calls and found nothing. Of course, as luck would have it, I had to land at the only gas station in the Western Hemisphere without a rock, brick or other object I could set under kick stand to level the bike while I checked fluids and stuff. The clerk inside was less than helpful. Since necessity is the mother of invention, my invention of the evening: yet another use for Spam - your basic one-size fits-all Spamstand! (Yup, I still carry it in my saddle bags - just in case, ya know.)

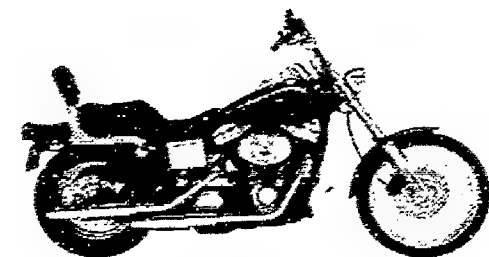

When I went back into the store, the not so friendly clerk, looked at me as if I was speaking a foreign language when I asked for directions to the nearest hotel. Considering my Spanish is flawed, at best, and that is the only other language I even remotely speak, it wasn't one near and dear to his heart. I figured out we had a real communication breakdown and I was getting nowhere fast. Back to making those damnable choices: A.) Sleep in the parking lot at a convenience store without even a payphone or sleeping bag; or B.) Take my chances with what lay ahead. Again, the latter was my choice. I've learned not to ask, "How much worse can it get?" It isn't usually long after the question comes up that you get an answer that you really didn't want in the first place.

So, back on the highway in search of a hotel/motel sign. Fortunately, it was a two lane where I didn't have to maintain any kind of speed. After what seemed near an eternity, I came upon signs for Mt. Vernon, IL. ALRIGHT a real town - one that I have actually even heard of! Got to be a hotel there, right? You would think. Well, the first one I came across was a pay-by-the-hour joint and I decided if the bike made it this far, it would be worth it for me to push it a little further down the road. I finally came across a place with all of my required needs - a bed, a phone, and the same price for all customers!

Good thing I decided to sign up for the MRF's Roadside Assistance Program two days before I left. At this point, I cared not that the hot tub I had hoped for was a bright green swimming pool which appeared to have a life of its own. Sleep was about the only thing I cared about. The bike wasn't going to get any worse sitting in a parking lot over night. In the morning I called for a flat bed, and after not all that long of a wait, I had the bike on the back for the remainder of the 127-mile ride to St. Louis.

All's well that ends well, right? I did have one hell of a ride. Also, I managed to complete the Iron Butt Run - 1,130 miles in a little less than 20 hours. (But can't accurately get a good read on it because the last three hours or so was when the problem developed.) Would I do it again? Who knows? It all depends on the mood and the circumstances. My main reason for wanting to do it was to see if I could. Now I know I can, so the mystery is no longer there.

Merle Shaffer, Mike Rem (CR), Sue Molnar (P), Barney (Mascot), John Gogla District 3 Rep., and Stanley Indyk on Route 70 in Belle Vernon

Last year Mon Valley Chapter got two Billboards made for "May is Motorcycle Safety & Awareness Month." We hung one up at Green Valley Beer Dist. in McKeesport near Eastland Shopping Mall and the other one was hung up on Rt. 70 at Exit 42 Belle Vernon on a lighted sign board for free. They were up for the whole month of May.

Then, when I was in Sturgis South Dakota in August for Bike Week, as I was walking down Main Street a person handed me the MRF (Motorcycle Riders Foundation) Newspaper... which is a National Newspaper, and our picture with our Billboard was on the very top of the front page. This was a very big deal! To not only get our Billboards hung up in PA but also on the front page of the MRF. We went national!

We also had five big banners hung up at Molnar's Lounge & Restaurant on Rt. 51 & 48 in Elizabeth for "May is Motorcycle Safety & Awareness Month" also. You can check out more about this on our web site at http://www.monvalleyabate.org/html/mv_billboard.htm

Stayin' Safe

MIKE SEATE
Columnist

About 20 years ago, fledgling motorcyclists had few options. Formal training classes for new bikers were scarce, so most new riders either learned from more experienced friends or family members, or they took their chances out on the streets.

Many could consider themselves lucky to make it home from the showroom uninjured, while countless others crashed while trying to teach themselves to ride. It was experiences like this that prompted Squirrel Hill resident Lawrence Grodsky to launch his Stayin' Safe motorcycle training school in the early 1990s.

A columnist with Rider magazine and a former instructor with the Motorcycle Safety Foundation, Grodsky, 55, spent several years teaching new students the rudiments of motorcycle operation before branching out on his own.

As a nationwide organization, the MSF operates free motorcycle training classes for new riders at community colleges across the country. The classes are funded by the costs of registering a motorcycle with the state and provide an excellent means of getting one's boots wet behind the handlebars for the first time. At area classes conducted from spring through fall, the foundation provides helmets, instruction and even free small-displacement motorcycles for its students.

But Grodsky noticed a dearth of advanced, on-the-road training options for MSF graduates, lessons that would take a newly-minted rider to the next level of safety and proficiency.

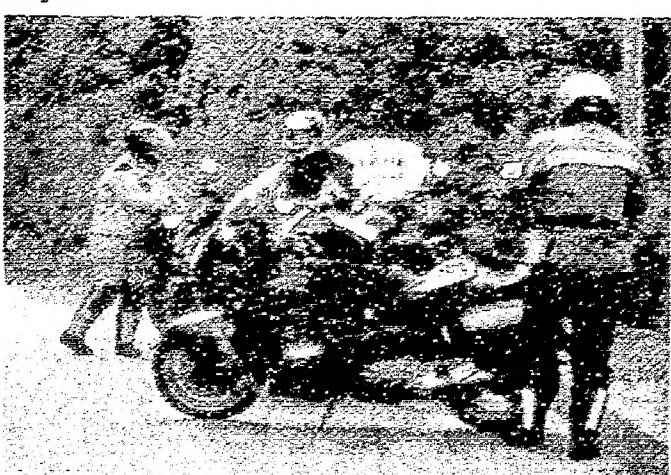

"When I started this, there really was no one doing anything like it. I'd met too many people who bought new motorcycles and ended up either afraid to ride them because they had no training, or people who took the MSF course, and never rode again because the transition from parking lot to the street was too drastic," said Grodsky.

Because many new riders tend to operate their motorcycles with the same sets of skills they use to drive a car, Grodsky is charged with virtually reprogramming their riding. Riding defensively is key, he says, spending hours alerting his flock to dangers most car drivers never think about.

As they pass a line of parked cars, the students are advised to look for taillights that may signal a car entering traffic; as a column of traffic passes in the opposite lane, Grodsky carefully alerts the class to watch beneath the last car to see whether any additional vehicles may remain, as they could quickly turn across the path of a motorcycle.

"I always say motorcycling is 90 percent mental and 10 percent physical," Grodsky says.

To date, the school has taught hundreds of students on public roads from Spain to California and here in Western Pennsylvania. After suffering brush burns and a bruised ego from a street crash in 1998, heavyweight boxing champ Mike Tyson called Grodsky for some advanced streetbike training, as has "Nightline" anchor Ted Koppel.

Part of the widespread appeal of Stayin' Safe lies in the owner's embrace of new technologies. Working with small groups of four to six students, a typical tour is staged on the sort of curvy, challenging roads that often make new riders nervous. But Grodsky has arranged to keep a link with his rolling classroom via a one-way radio system installed in each rider's helmet.

The wireless system allows Grodsky to communicate with each student as they ride along, correcting their inputs and offering a moving critique of their skills. "And since my helmet has the only radio that transmits, the riders can't talk back," Grodsky likes to joke.

With the recent advent of small, easily-transported camcorders, all Stayin' Safe students are captured on videotape. At rest stops along the day-long and weekend-long rides, Grodsky and his team of trained instructors show the students footage of themselves in action on a laptop computer. The tapes can provide a few embarrassing moments for the students, but in the long run, the ability to observe one's self in action is an incredible help, students say.

While Grodsky's classes stress his time-honored dictums of maintaining a highly visible position on the road, reading road conditions so there's no sudden surprises and maintaining proper steering techniques, there is a lot of fun to be had.

The popular Switzerland of Ohio tour is staged along some incredibly twisty and rolling hills through the mountains of West Virginia and Southeast Ohio, while week-long schools conducted in Spain are typically booked during Pittsburgh's drab winter months as a sort of educational-but-fun getaway vacation.

Admittedly, a Stayin' Safe school is not cheap. Two-day classes are $700 including overnight accommodations, while three day excursions to the Shenandoah Mountains, or North Carolina's scenic Blue Ridge Parkway run $1,050. However, Stayin' Safe now offers half-day mini-camps for as little as $270 per rider. And it's tough to put a price on training that could someday save a life.

Daytona 2005

PAT SCHURR

Bike Week was the main reason for the trip, so I visited Beach Avenue on the mainland and Main Street on Daytona Beach. It was quite interesting, to say the least -- lots of loud pipes, neon lights, and people everywhere. You could almost feel the pain of the crowd as the police officer wrote one girl a ticket for doing a "burn-out" in the middle of the street (no sense of humor?). And, there was leather and more leather, t-shirts, and boots and people everywhere. There were bikes of every brand and size, and choppers everywhere. I really had no idea there were so many of them, and, being ridden by men and women, nice! Thursday night I decided to take in the sights of the night life on Main Street Daytona Beach. One night was enough for me!

In 1997, I started my riding career. What a blast! If I'd known that riding bikes was this much fun, I'd have hung up my dish towel long ago. Over the past eight years, I've been to places from Laconia, N.H. to Milwaukee, WI, averaging over 10,000 miles a year on my bike. A lot of those miles you will find one of my two kids on the back. That is fine with them as long as it includes an ice cream stop (and I'm okay with that too).

This year, for the first time, I got to see Daytona Beach and the 64th Annual Bike Week up close and personal. My husband stayed home with the kids (what a man) and I headed to Florida with my Kawasaki Vulcan 1500. The weather was uncooperative so I'm sorry to say, we trailed our bikes to South Carolina. As we drove over the stretch of road on US-19 connecting I-79 and I-77 we went through quite a snow storm. I've done a lot of cold weather riding, with electric gloves and snow suits, but I was real glad I wasn't on a bike that day.

From Columbia, South Carolina, where we parked my car and trailer, the weather was absolutely gorgeous. The ride down to Flagler Beach, FL couldn't have been better. The sun was shining, not a cloud in the sky, and nothing but open road ahead. Besides all that, I was heading to Florida on my bike on March 3rd and it was snowing back home.

Saturday came way too quickly and, surprisingly enough, at 7:30 am I found myself plugging in my electric gloves in Florida -- it was cold. By the time we reached Jacksonville the summer gloves were back on. The ride back to South Carolina was just as nice as the opposite direction had been. We reached our destination about 4:00 PM and it was tough putting those bikes back on the trailer when it was 70 degrees and sunny. But alas, we were heading back to snow country.

What a great trip -- I can't wait to do it again, but, without the trailer. For me, the next big trip will be Washington, D.C. in May with about 30 of my closest friends, then Carolina Beach, NC in June. Who knew biking was this exhilarating? Some day I may see Sturgis (North Dakota) although it won't be this year. Let me tell you, there is still nothing as beautiful as Pennsylvania roads on a Sunday afternoon.

Motorcycle Hall of Fame Announces New Exhibit

"BMW: The Mastery of Speed"

ISSUED BY THE MOTORCYCLE HALL OF FAME MUSEUM

PICKERINGTON, OHIO - The Motorcycle Hall of Fame Museum will celebrate eight decades of BMW sport bikes with an all-new exhibit, "BMW: The Mastery of Speed." Opening July 20, 2005, this showcase of the German manufacturer's sporting heritage features seldom seen and historically significant machines on loan from the renowned Peter Nettesheim collection. The exhibit will also include rare images and artifacts from Mr. Nettesheim's insightful and "consumer-friendly" approach to BMW motorcycle history. A master storyteller with a passion for uncovering little-known facts and stories about the motorcycles he collects and restores, Nettesheim and Mederski strategically selected vintage models that define each of BMW's most important models, beginning with the Twenties—the period when BMW temporarily ceased their aircraft engine production and transitioned to engineering ground transportation. "BMW: The Mastery of Speed" opens just as BMW unveils the latest chapter in its sport-tuned model line, the 2005 K1200S and the soon-to-debut "naked" K1200R - which will be added to the exhibit upon its arrival on U.S. soil.

The official dedication of "BMW: The Mastery of Speed" includes a ribbon-cutting ceremony at 4 p.m. July 20, visits by special guests from BMW Motorrad USA, and a sampling of Munich's best-loved culinary traditions. The event and exhibit are open to the public (regular admission prices apply). The opening also coincides with the BMW Motorcycle Owners of America 33rd Annual International Rally, held July 21 - 24 in Lima, Ohio, which is expected to bring up to 9,000 BMW enthusiasts to the area.

"BMW understood and mastered the art of performance motorcycle design long before many other manufacturers discovered that performance sells," said Mark Mederski, executive director, Motorcycle Hall of Fame Museum. "This exhibit not only traces BMW's sporting DNA back to its source, but gives visitors the chance to see how it evolved through some of the most significant machines ever engineered and produced by the company."

The exhibit is created around Peter Nettesheim's insightful and "consumer-friendly" approach to BMW motorcycle history. A master storyteller with a passion for uncovering little-known facts and stories about the motorcycles he collects and restores, Nettesheim and Mederski strategically selected vintage models that define each of BMW's most important models, beginning with the Twenties—the period when BMW temporarily ceased their aircraft engine production and transitioned to engineering ground transportation. "BMW: The Mastery of Speed" opens just as BMW unveils the latest chapter in its sport-tuned model line, the 2005 K1200S and the soon-to-debut "naked" K1200R - which will be added to the exhibit upon its arrival on U.S. soil.

Visitors will enjoy some exceptional early and rare BMW designs. Particularly significant is the oldest motorcycle on display, a 1927 BMW R47, one of 1,720 machines sold between 1927 and 1928. As early as 1921, BMW was producing power plants like the two cylinder 494cc flat twin in the R47, which launched the bike to a then-sizzling top speed of nearly 70 mph. Motorcycles from nearly every decade of the company's history are on view, including the R5, the road-going twin cam sport model based on BMW's consistent race winner, the R55S (Super Sport). BMW offered a sport motorcycle in each of its eight decades and it is this sporting heritage that enabled them to accomplish their "Mastery of Speed."

In addition to these magnificent machines, the exhibit includes an illustrative diorama of a BMW factory scene, as well as several technical displays that explore how designs not only contributed to BMW motorcycles' performance cache, but also to the bikes' reliability and safety. Advertising art from early brochures explains BMW's driveline and enthusiasts will immediately recognize the familiar horizontally-opposed twin, direct bolted transmission with a right side driveshaft to a bevel rear drive. Most BMWs use a similar shaft drive layout to this day. The exhibit also presents period photos of BMW's innovators in pursuit of performance.

"BMW: The Mastery of Speed" joins the Motorcycle Hall of Fame Museum's equally new "Motocross America" exhibit, opening this month.

About the Motorcycle Hall of Fame Museum

The goal of the Motorcycle Hall of Fame Museum is to tell the stories and preserve the history of motorcycling. Located on the campus of the American Motorcyclist Association in Pickerington, Ohio, the Motorcycle Hall of Fame honors those who have contributed notably to the sport, and three major exhibition halls showcase the machines and memorabilia that have shaped motorcycling. The Museum is open from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. daily, and is closed on New Year's, Easter, Thanksgiving and Christmas. Adult admission is $10 per person; students 12 - 17, $3. AMA members $5. Seniors receive a $2 discount and members of motorcycle clubs and organizations are eligible for a $1 discount per ticket. A $25.00 family rate and group rates are also available. For more information, call (614) 856-2222, or visit the Museum's website at www.motorcyclemuseum.org.

MIKE SEATE
Columnist

In the years immediately following WWII, Japanese citizens did a lot of walking. Their automobile industry devastated by years of allied bombings, citizens were without cheap, reliable transportation. Answering the call was a little-known bicycle enthusiast and mechanical engineer by the name of Soichiro Honda who began bolting small, gas-powered engines to bicycle frames.

Ten years of relentless research and development later, Honda had sold tens of thousands of little commuter bikes and was on his way to challenging the well-established British and European motorcycle manufacturers at the high-performance racing game. During the 1960s, Honda captured several racing championships and established the Japanese as world players in the transportation market.

Soichiro Honda's initial ideals of reliability, quality, and ease of use have helped Honda Motor Corporation become the world's largest manufacturer of motorcycles and powersports equipment. And in a bold move attempted by few other players in the motorsports game, Honda have recently introduced a line of brand-name dealerships, specializing in Honda-only merchandise.

In April, West Hills Honda, Pittsburgh's first Honda-only dealership opened its doors in Moon Township. The shop offers customers not only Honda's extensive line-up of off-road, cruiser and high-performance motorcycles, but personal watercraft, quads, scooters and by mid-summer, generators and lawn-care equipment.

It's the broad inventory of goods bearing the Honda name that led Owner John Bergman, 42, to open the franchise. "I've been a fan of Honda since I was a kid, riding dirt bikes. I've noticed that Honda has a very dedicated clientele, people who may start off on a small bike and eventually work their way up to a big street machine while always sticking with the Honda brand," he said.

Previously, only Milwaukee's Harley-Davidson motor company have successfully marketed their motorcycles to customers in stand-alone dealerships. But unlike the vaunted American manufacturer, shops like West Hills offer motorcycles to fit riders of all ages and sizes, from kid-friendly 50cc off-road machines, to serious, track-oriented race replicas like the lightweight CBR 600RR and the thundering VTX 1800 V-twin cruiser.

Bergman did a brisk walk-around one of the new VTX cruisers, pointing out revolutionary technological details like a fully-enclosed shaft drive, a quiet-running eight-valve water-cooled motor and sportbike-style upside-down front forks. With the country in the grips of a custom motorcycle craze fueled by top-rated TV programs like the Discovery Channel's "American Chopper," Honda have seen fit to introduce an extensive line of custom products for the 1300cc and 1800cc VTX line, including louder exhaust systems, chrome detailing and long-distance touring accessories.

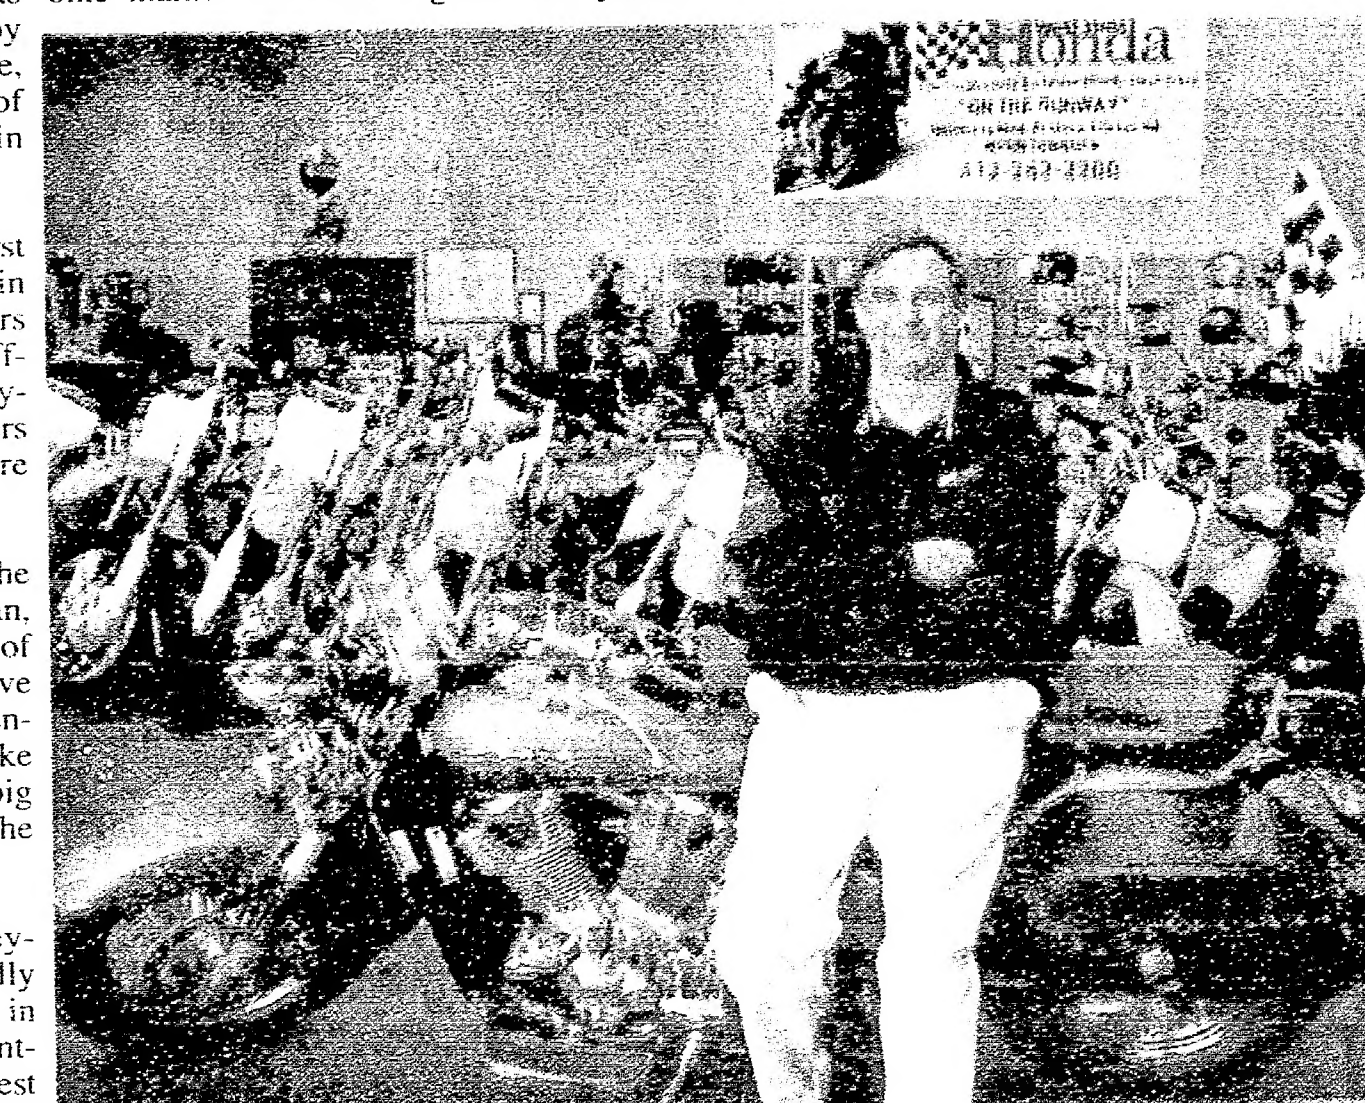

With 2005 marking the 30th anniversary of Honda's entry into the competitive touring bike market with the original, six-cylinder

Gold Wing, an anniversary edition Gold Wing is on offer at the shop, replete with anti-lock brakes, a 5-speed transmission including electric reverse gear and additional options including a multi-disc CD player, heated handgrips and CB radio.

Bob Hesch, service manager at the newly opened dealership said one of the advantages to a single-brand dealership lies in the ease of maintenance. "Once you get several brands in a dealership at once, not only do the mechanics have to be trained for each individual line, but some of the technology differs from each brand so focusing on just Honda will make things easier," he said.

Though the West Hills Honda service department stresses a commitment to repairing and servicing all brands of motorcycles, and an on-site dynamometer will be installed later this month for comprehensive power testing and performance tuning, the shop's main focus will be on Hondas.

Located near the popular "runway of car dealerships" on Moon Run near the airport, West Hills Honda has a Grand Opening scheduled for June 18. The staff will schedule regular rider meetings including a chapter of the worldwide Honda Rider's Club which should form later this spring. And Bergman says local riders can stop by and look for information about possible track-day events for performance riders at Beaverun Motorsports Complex in Wampum, Beaver County.

"I like the way Honda offers something for all types of riders. The most popular type of street bike right now is cruisers, but the demographics for motorcycles is changing and guys don't exactly want to ride the same kind of bikes they dad's did, so we're seeing the younger guys really get into the sportbikes lately, and Honda has some incredible sport bikes right now," Bergman said.
